COUNCIL WILL NOT BE HASTY

Mayor's Garbage Message Is Temporarily Held Up.

TIME WANTED TO CONSIDER

WHY THE CITY CAN TERMINATE BUTLER'S CONTRACT.

Friends of the Message in Favor of Municipal Handling of Garbage Active in Showing Faults of Present System.

Chairman William M. Horton of the Council committee on sanitary affairs, to which was referred Mayor Wells' message on garbage reduction and the possible purchase by the city of the St. Louis Sanitary Co.'s plant, says the committee will not meet Friday or Saturday, and possibly not next week.

"The Council is just getting organized," said Mr. Horton to the Post-Dispatch Friday morning, "and it is too early to foreshadow legislation. I prefer not to express an opinion on the subject of a municipal garbage reduction plant until I shall have studied the question more thoroughly.

"The committee will investigate the subject in all its bearings before submitting a report or originating an ordinance."

Both President Hornsby and Mr. Horton stated that, so far as they knew, none of the councilmen have framed an ordinance to provide for the disposition of the garbage after the expiration of the contract with the St. Louis Sanitary Co., Sept. 23, 1901.

The members of the sanitary committee of the Council are: Messrs. Horton and Schnell, Republicans, and Mr. Gibson, Democrat.

Some comment has been caused by the fact that Mr. Horton, who is contesting the election of James J. Butler to Congress, should be chairman of the committee to which will be referred bills vitally affecting the Butler interests in the next two years.

Mr. Horton smiled when his attention was called to this fact, and remarked that he did not think the coincidence had occurred to President Hornsby in naming his committees.

City Could Abrogate Contract.

Advocates of municipal control of both garbage collection and reduction plants, who have studied the subject closely, say the contract with the Excelsior Hauling and Transfer Co. could be terminated at any time by the board of health.

Section 19 of the city's contract with the company and its sureties, James Campbell and Edward Butler, reads as follows:

"The contract for the removal of dead animals and garbage may be terminated at any time by the board of health, whenever the contractor shall refuse or neglect to perform any of the stipulations thereof, and as to the fact of such refusal or neglect the said board shall reserve to itself the exclusive right of determining."

Section 20 says: "Whenever the contractor fails or neglects to perform his work, or any portion thereof, or whenever the board of health shall have terminated his contract, the board of health shall have the power to provide for the removal of dead animals and garbage in such manner as it may deem best for the interests of the city."

The complaints of non-collection of garbage, which pile up each summer at the office of the board of health; the practice of leaving dead animals in the streets for days at a time, when the contract says they shall be removed within six hours of daylight time after notice is given, and the alleged daily and almost hourly violations of other sections of the contract furnish, in the minds of unprejudiced citizens, reasons why the board of health could legally terminate the contract.

The board of health consists of the mayor, health commissioner, president of the Council, one member from the board of police commissioners and two regular physicians, the present incumbents being Drs. Albert Merrell and Henry N. Chapman.

Should the board of health decide to terminate the contract with the Excelsior Hauling and Transfer Co., which has until July 14, 1908, to run, at an annual cost of $127,200, the Municipal Assembly would be free to proceed with plans for disposing of the garbage under direct municipal control.

Under the contract with the St. Louis Sanitary Co. it can purchase the plant of that concern at a fair valuation at the termination of the contract next September.

REAL SPRING HERE AT LAST

Nothing Is in Sight but Fair and Pleasant Weather, According to the Local Seer.

At last the real sepring weather is upon us, according to Dr. Hyatt.

He says it will be generally fair and warmer Friday night and Saturday.

Later on he hopes the same atmospheric conditions will continue.

"There was a little frost last night," the doctor said, rather proudly, Friday morning, "just as I predicted."

"But there is no more frost in sight and nothing on the immediate weather horoscope except indications of pleasant weather."

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

FAIR, WARMER.

For St. Louis and vicinity—Generally fair and warmer Friday night and Saturday.

Missouri—Fair Friday night and Saturday; slight frost Friday night.

Illinois—Fair Friday night and Saturday; slight changes in [illegible] y night.

MISSOURI MAY HAVE BUILDING AT BUFFALO

MISSOURI PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION BOARD IN SESSION.

The members of the board are, from left to right at the table: Chas. C. Bell, of Boonville, treasurer; E. S. Garver of Grant Cit, president; Robert M. State Building Worth $10,000 May Be Erected by the Missouri Pan-American Commission Out of Their General Fund.

Missouri may have a state building at the Pan-American Exposition., even though the legislature made no appropriation for the erection of such a building, and even though the Missouri commission cannot spare that amount from the $50,000 it has been allowed to work with.

The Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company may come to the aid of the Missouri commissioners. This body is not yet permanently organized, but Gov. Francis has promised to suggest the matter to the directors at their first meeting.

It is believed that a state building at Buffalo would go a long way toward advertising the St. Louis World's Fair, as well as furnishing a headquarters for Missourians who may visit the Pan-American exposition.

Secretary R. M. Yost of the Missouri board of commissioners had a consultation recently with Gov. Francis on the subject.

"Gov. Francis expressed himself as favorable to the project," said Mr. Yost, "and promised to lay it before the first meeting of the World's Fair directors."

Commissioner Fayette P. Graves, who is now in Buffalo, is enthusiastic over the prospect of having a state building there. He has written Secretary Yost that he believes a serviceable building can be erected for $10,000 and that it would be a source of much comfort to Missourians at the Pan-American show.

SEARCHES EOR WIFE IN VAIN

Mrs. McNally Fears Husband Will Shoot Her.

HE HAS SOLD "GREEN GOODS"

SHE NOW DECLARES SHE DID NOT KNOW HIS RECORD.

NEW YORK, April 19.—"Jimmy" McNally, the former "green goods king," who has been chasing his wife about Boston for the last two days, has returned to this city. His wife got back ahead of him, and is in hiding with friends. She professes to be fearful he will carry out the threat he is said to have made to shoot her on sight.

Mrs. McNally was a cloak model in one of the big dry goods stores when she met her husband, and he had only recently finished a term in the state prison at Joliet, Ill. She says she knew nothing of his record until months after they were married. To a reporter she told the circumstances surrounding her hasty marriage. She explained, too, how it was that she happened two days ago to be stopping at the Westminster in Boston with the mother of Frank Voorhess, a Princeton college graduate.

"I was living in Princeton," she said, "while Frank Voorhees was in college there. I was introduced to him one night at a public entertainment and we became well acquainted. The more I saw of him the better I liked him, and in the course of a few weeks we became engaged. His mother knew nothing of it at the time, and when he told her later she was much displeased. She did not like the idea of her son marrying a young woman who had to earn her own living and who was not known in society. Frank said we'd have to wait, and I quarreled with him and came away to New York.

"I obtained a position as a cloak model and boarded in West Forty-third street. Mr. McNally and his brother came to live in the same house and I saw them day after day at the dinner table. That was the way we met.

"Jim was very quiet and gentlemanly and very jolly when he wanted to be. He took a fancy to me. I was suffering from a perpetual case of blues because of my quarrel with Mr. Voorhees, and I found a good deal of relief in Jim's company. I was given to understand that he owned a large stock farm and was wealthy and when, at the end of a few weeks' time, he asked me to marry him, I consented. We were married by a minister and for a time I was very happy. Jim had plenty of money and we went about a good deal.

"The first shock came when I learned that Jim had been in prison. I read it in a newspaper, but would not believe it until he told me so himself. He claimed that he had reformed, and I decided to make the best of it. I lived with him until a few months ago, when I could stand it no longer. I got a position as a cloak model and left him.

"I happened to meet Mr. Voorhees by chance one day on the street and told him my story. He was very sympathetic. I do not care to go into details except that at the time Jim came to Boston I was the guest of Mrs. Voorhees. I hope to get a divorce from Jim in the near future, and that is all I will say for the present."

McNally is still bent upon finding his wife, but denies that he threatened to shoot her in Boston. He took up his stand yesterday afternoon in front of the Hotel Marlborough, and for an hour watched the processions passing up and down.

"It will be two years next July," he said, "that I have known my wife. I met her a short time after my release from prison. I was struck with her appearance the first time I saw her. I met her every day and finally we got to going to the races and football games together. Everything went smoothly until I became jealous of a young fellow who called on her. We didn't speak for several days, and when we did make up again we realized that our case was serious and decided to get married.

"Before I married her I told her all about myself and asked her if she was not afraid it would make trouble for her. She took me, record and all. After I got my money affairs straightened out we got a flat up in Harlem. Later we moved to No. 140 West Thirty-sixth street, where we lived until last June, when my money ran out. My wife lost a good part of it betting on the races."

NO ANSWER!

THE BOSS: That's funny. Don't the mayor know my knock?

MISS MARGARET KAIN DEAD

Sister of Archbishop John J. Kain Passes Away at Archepiscopal Residence—Interment at Wheeling, W. Va.

Miss Margaret Kain, sister of Most Rev. John J. Kain, archbishop of St. Louis, died at the archepiscopal residence, 3810 Lindell boulevard, at 4:45 o'clock Friday morning.

She was 66 years of age and had been an invalid for several months. An internal rupture was the immediate cause of her death.

Miss Kain was born in New York state and had been for many years a member of the household of her distinguished brother. She has resided at the Lindell avenue home since Archbishop Kain came to St. Louis.

Archbishop Kain was at her bedside when she passed away. Four hours after she breathed her last her sister, Sister Mary Josephine Kain, arrived from Wheeling, W. Va., having been summoned by wire when Miss Kain's illness reached a critical stage.

The remains will be taken to Wheeling, the old home of the Kain family, for interment, on the train that leaves St. Louis at 8:40 o'clock Sunday morning. They will arrive in Wheeling at 5 o'clock Monday morning. High mass of requiem will be sung at the Wheeling cathedral, the archbishop officiating.

The interment will take place beside the graves of her parents in the Catholic Cemetery at Wheeling.

Warrants for Street Car Men.

Frank Stork and Wesley McIntyre, the Spring avenue motorman and conductor who assaulted M. Murphy, of 2905 Dickson street, at Sixth and Locust streets, Tuesday morning, were charged with assault and battery in warrants issued Friday. They caused Murphy's arrest at the time and he was tried on a disturbance of the peace charge in the Dayton Street police court, Friday and was acquitted.

MAYOR MET POLICE BOARD

Commissioners Are Expected to Pass Upon His Street Sprinklking Inspection Suggestions.

Mayor Rolla Wells and William G. Frye, the recent appointee of Gov. Dockery, made their first appearance at the long-delayed meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners, which began at 2 o'clock at the Four Courts. Commissioner Ballard was the only absent member. He has left the city temporarily for the benefit of his health.

Prominent among the matters which the board is expected to consider during the afternoon is the suggestion of Mayor Wells to Chief of Police Kiely that the police receive instructions from him to inspect the street sprinkling of the city with a view to securing better service than it has received in recent years. This plan suggests itself to the mayor as an efficient means of cutting off the expense incurred by maintaining a department of street sprinkling inspectors. The question of possible appointments in the department and transfers may also be determined by the board.

MORGAN IN EXCELLENT HEALTH

Denial of the Rumor that the Financier Is Suffering From Heart Disease.

LONDON, April 19.—J. Pierpont Morgan started for Paris this morning in the best of health and accompanied by his son and grandchildren. The representatives of Mr. Morgan declare that the story of his ill health cabled from here to the United States is absolutely unfounded.

NEW YORK, April 19.—At the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. today the report that Mr. Morgan was suffering from heart disease or any other illness was denied. Mr. Morgan, it was said, is in his usual good health.

DELEGATES IN ANXIOUS DOUBT

Speaker Cronin Will Name Committees Friday.

NOT ENOUGH CHAIRMANSHIPS

"SNAKE" KINNEY WILL DIRECT EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS.

Geraghty Will Probably Be Chairman of the Public Improvements Committee and John J. Burke of Railroad Legislation.

Speaker James H. Cronin of the House of Delegates will announce the permanent committees of that body at Friday night's meeting, and members of the House majority are anxiously awaiting the speaker's announcement to learn where they are to stand in the councils of the combine.

Speaker Cronin has twenty allies in the House and only fourteen chairmanships to distribute.

In the caucus which preceded his election, he agreed on a partial list of committee appointments. Since that time two new members, John Fontana and T. J. Buckley, have been admitted to the House, and the scheme of committees has been disarranged, so that only a few favored members of the majority know just where they are to stand.

The two committees which have been appointed thus far are the ways and means committee, composed of Delegates Sweeney, Kelly, Hannigan, Williams and Koeln, and the committee on election and registration, Delegates Howard, Burke and Zachritz.

The ways and means committee is first in importance. Its chief task of the year is in preparing the annual appropriation bill, in which work it is supposed to co-operate with the same committee in the Council. Appropriation bills which come up during the year may be referred to this committee or to some other, according to the object of the proposed appropriation.

Next in importance comes the public improvements committee. Into its hands come all bills for street reconstruction, alley improvements, public sewers and waterworks extensions. The committee can keep public work moving by considering and reporting bills promptly, or it can block progress by allowing the bills sent to it by the board of public improvements to accumulate in its box. The "holding-up" policy was very popular in the last House, until a general public demand for action caused a partial cleaning out of the box shortly before the election.

Other Chairmanships Cronin Will Distribute.

It is generally believed that Delegate Charles L. Geraghty of the Twenty-seventh ward will be named as chairman of the public improvements committee. Delegate W. R. Faulkner of the Twenty-third is also mentioned for the place.

The importance of the railroad committee depends on the amount of railroad legislation which comes in during the session. The only matters which this committee had to consider at the last session were switch bills until the Suburban bill came up. The committee made nice progress with this measure until the property owners on the streets which the new line was to traverse secured an injunction against its passage. It is considered a certainty that the Suburban bill will be revived at the present session in some form.

The duties of the sanitary committee usually consist of considering dairy bills and measures prepared by the board of health, such as the pure food and milk inspection bills, which died in the last House. At this session a new importance is conferred on this committee by the pending question whether the city shall renew its garbage reduction contract or buy the Butler plant and reduce its own garbage in future.

Ed Koeln of the Eleventh ward, which is Health Commissioner Starkloff's ward, is talked of as a possible selection for chairman of the committee, but the fact that he is a Republican, although a member of the Cronin combine, is held by some members to make him ineligible for so important a place.

Speaker Will Get Even With Murrell.

The duties of the legislation committee are just what the speaker wishes to make them. They usually receive the bills which are difficult to classify, or which two or more of the other committees might otherwise claim. Delegates Gazzalo of the Fifteenth ward and Brennan of the Twenty-sixth are spoken of as possible selections for this chairmanship.

For the chairmanship of the committee on House of Delegates, the least important of all the committees of the House, to which no business is ever referred, former Speaker Ed E. Murrell is considered a certainty. Murrell, when speaker, appointed Cronin, who was then a member of the minority, to the chairmanship of this committee, with Sweeney and Burke as his colleagues. Speaker Cronin never forgets a favor, and is going to appoint Murrell to his former position. Karbe and Windmueller are spoken of as possible members of the committee.

The duties of the committees on claims, fire department, police and workhouse, markets, public accounts, election and registration and education and labor are shown by their titles. The committee on engrossed and enrolled bills is responsible for the correctness of all measures passed.

Delegate "Snake" Kinney is expected to get a chairmanship, probably that of the education and labor committee.

Denny, Fontana and Williams are talked of for the claims committee. Reiss, who is regarded as the leader of the minority, and who is personally well liked by many of the members of the majority, is likely to receive recognition in the naming of committees, although he is in no danger of getting a chairmanship.

Kelly and Hannigan (Dems.), who are not wholly in accord with Cronin, were provided for in the ways and means committee, and are not likely to be chairmen of anything.

The House will meet at 7 p. m., Friday. Delegate Sweeney's smoke nuisance and smoke inspector bills will be read for the second time and referred, probably, to the sanitary committee.

NEW BANK FOR CUBA.

Canadians and Americans Will Furnish Ample Capital.

NEW YORK, April 19.—It is understood that an international bank with a capital of not less than $1,000,000 and perhaps as much as $2,000,000, is to be established in Havana by interests prominently identified with the Morton Trust Co. and the Cuba Company. Among the large stockholders of the latter corporation, of which Sir Wm. C. Van Horne is president, are several well-known Montreal financiers, a fact which makes it not improbable that capitalists interested in the Bank of Montreal also may be shareholders in the new financial institution to be established in the Cuban capital.

MR. PARKER HAS MADE NO REPLY

Mayor Wells Would Probe Election Fraud.

OFFERS TO ASSIST PARKER

EACH SHOULD PUT UP $10,000 TO DEFRAY EXPENSES.

Mr. Parker Says Nothing, but His Son, Clarence, Characterizes the Mayor's Public Offer as a "Grand Stand Play."

Mayor Rolla Wells has written a letter to George W. Parker, late Republican candidate, asking him to make a contest in order to prove the charges of fraud which he has made.

Mr. Wells reiterates the statement made by him in the campaign, that he will not hold the office if shown to have been fraudulently elected, and offers to enter appearance, waive every technicality and co-operate with the defeated candidate to ascertain the truth of the charges.

Clarence F. Parker, son of George W. Parker, stated to the Post-Dispatch Friday morning that no decision had been reached in the matter of instituting a contest for the mayoralty.

Mr. Parker said a letter had been received from Mayor Rolla Wells, inviting his father, who was the Republican nominee, to make a contest in order to clear up the charges of fraud in connection with the election, but that no reply had been framed.

Mr. Parker expressed the opinion that Mayor Wells' letter was a "grand-stand play." The elder Mr. Parker, it was stated, was ill.

Mayor Wells' letter to Mr. Parker follows:

Mr. George W. Parker, city.

Dear Sir: Since the election on the 2d of April partisan newspapers have been making the statement that my election was effected by the grossest fraud at the polls. You also have made such statements in interviews, but I have refrained from saying anything on the subject, hoping that you would institute a judicial investigation so that, through the courts, the only proper machinery for the purpose, the truth or falsity of these statements could be shown. By your letter to the St. Louis Republican Club, published April 16, you advised me and others that you do not intend making any contest, and use the following language: "Speaking for myself as the defeated candidate for mayor, I beg to say that I have been unable to get my own consent to the use of my name in such contest. No intelligent citizen doubts the proposition that the recent election was carried for the Democratic candidate by the grossest fraud backed up by brutal force. * * * but having been counted out, I am opposed personally to renew the strife in a contest * * *."

If you are sincerely of the opinion which you here express I do not see how you can consistently, in view of your duty to the party which nominated you, and to the people of the city of St. Louis, refuse to prove the truth of your statement.

During the campaign I stated that I did not want, nor would I hold, the office of mayor if I were not lawfully elected thereto. I now repeat that statement. The Republican newspapers of this city have charged that gigantic frauds were committed in this election. You have twice made the same statement. These statements are either true or false. If true, they ought to be immediately demonstrated; if false, such statements ought to cease and you and others who have made them ought to retract what you have said. In my opinion no greater misfortune can come to any community than that it should lose confidence in the honesty of its election.

If you will institute such a contest immediately I will enter appearance, waive every technicality, and co-operate with you in every proper way to have the ballot boxes opened, the votes counted, and the truth ascertained, provided that we shall each of us deposit in the National Bank of Commerce in this city the sum of $10,000 in trust, to be disposed of as follows: In the event that you are successful in your contest in the courts and are declared to be lawfully elected mayor of this city, the $10,000 deposited by you shall be immediately repaid to you; and the $10,000 deposited by me shall be paid to you, to be used in the payment of your expenses in the contest. If you are unsuccessful and the courts shall hold that I am the lawfully elected mayor of this city, my deposit of $10,000 is to be repaid to me, but I do not ask for your $10,000. I will pay all my own expenses and the $10,000 deposited by you shall be paid to the Saturday and Sunday Hospital Collection Association for distribution amongst the hospitals in the proportions in which its last annual collection was disbursed.

Since both your interview and your letter were published, and since the matter is of great public concern, I have sent to the newspapers a copy of this communication. Respectfully,

ROLLA WELLS.

EDWARDS' NAME IS LAID OVER

B. P. I. Defers Action on Its Secretaryship.

PHILLIPS' WISH WAS CROSSED

REPUBLICANS VOTED SOLIDLY AGAINST HIS PLANS.

He Says It's Politics, but They Say They Only Want to Learn More About Qualifications of Appointee.

The first clash between President Hiram Phillips of the Board of Public Improvements and the five Republican members came at Friday morning's meeting, when the board voted to defer action on the appointment of Waller Edwards as secretary until next Tuesday's meeting.

The appointment of Mr. Edwards was submitted by President Phillips to the board atfer the resignation of Maj. Emory S. Foster, secretary for 28 years, had been read.

"I move that action on the appointment be deferred until the next meeting," said Water Commissioner Flad.

The five Republican members voted aye on the motion, and President Phillips voted no.

"I know no reason for the action of the board unless it is politics," said President Phillips after the meeting. "I will not be in a position to form any positive opinion on this matter until I see what the members vote to do with the appointment at the next meeting. Until a new secretary has been confirmed and has qualified Maj. Foster will continue to be secretary and will bear the full responsibility of that office."

Secretary Foster has been sick for several months and the work of the office has been performed by George Brand, stenographer of the board. Some of the members of the board are known to favor Brand's retention.

Mr. Flad said he desired merely to learn something of Mr. Edwards' qualifications for the place before voting on his appointment.

President Phillips appointed the standing committees of the board Friday. He is a member of each committee, and is chairman of the committee on president's department, the other members being Street Commissioner Varrelmann, Water Commissioner Flad and Sewer Commissioner Hermann. The other committees are: Street department, Varrelmann, Flad and Park Commissioner Ridgely; water department, Flad, Hermann and Harbor Commissioner Alt; sewers, Hermann, Varrelmann and Alt; parks, Ridgely and Alt; harbor and wharf, Alt and Ridgely; street grades, Varrelmann, Flad and Hermann; lighting, Flad and Ridgely.

A new World's Fair park site bill was introduced into the board Friday, and was referred to a committee of the whole. It provides that the Fair corporation shall give a $200,000 bond to the city, and changes the boundaries in Forest Park laid down in the former bill, which was vetoed by former Mayor Ziegenhein.

President Phillips has appointed Miss Rose Eisler stenographer in his office in place of Miss Florence Rice. He stated Friday that he had received the resignation of W. B. Allen, bookkeeper in his office, and would fill the place later in the day. The salary is $2500 a year.

AND SO THEY ALL WEPT.

Kentucky School Teachers Have a Strenuous Time in East St. Louis.

F. C. Glover, George Ficks and C. A. Fice, each with a loaded revolver wrapped in a silk handkerchief and pockets filled with cartridges, were arrested at East St. Louis Thursday night by Officers De Witt and Little.

The men claimed to be school teachers from Kentucky en route to the West to emulate the precedent of the strenuous life established by Col. Roosevelt.

"We are from Kentucky," the trio exclaimed when halted by the officers on St. Clair avenue.

"We are from Illinois," retorted the bluecoats, "and you will have to go with us."

The men broke down and sobbed like children. It was their first experience, they said, at roughing it. All seem to be well educated.

BRITAIN'S LOAD HARD TO BEAR

The Boer War May Yet Cost $1,000,000,000.

TAXES LARGELY INCREASED

THE IMPORT ON COAL CAUSES LOUD PROTESTS.

Price of Sugar Raised in London and Confectioners Advance the Figures on All of Their Products.

GREAT BRITAIN'S PLIGHT

Cost of Boer war	$750,000,000
Present deficit	265,000,000
Expenditure to be provided for	685,000,000
Loan proposed	600,000,000

LONDON, April 19.—Taken as a whole the comments of the country on the proposals of the chancellor of the exchequer in the budget statement, presented yesterday, cannot be regarded as unfavorable.

The preliminary budget statement shows that the revenue of the government for the year will be $650,000,000 and the expenditures $945,000,000, leaving the enormous deficit of $245,000,000 over and above the product of the special war tax heretofore levied.

The total expenditure to be provided for during the next fiscal year is $935,000,000, which is an increase of $165,000,000 over the previous fiscal year.

The income tax is to be increased 2 pence on the £1, sugar is to be taxed 4 and 2 pence per hundredweight, an export duty is to be levied upon coal and the sinking fund is to be suspended.

The cost of the Boer war to date is about $750,000,000, and may go to $1,000,000,000 before it is ended. It is proposed to borrow $600,000,000.

The outstanding feature of the public's reception of the budget is the outcry from the coal districts, and, in a lesser degree, from the businesses affected by the sugar tax. In coal centers the export duty is regarding as confirming the idea in some radical quarters that the government is riding for a fall, but the well-informed consider it possible that the chancellor of the exchequer will be induced to exempt from the new duty all contracts made prior to today, thus relieving the pressure on the middlemen who have bought or sold coal for future delivery.

This, it is believed, will go far to reconcile the coal trade generally to the new imposition. In the meanwhile, however, the opposition of the coal owners is augmenting hourly. The chambers of commerce in the coal districts are protesting in vigorous terms. The Cardiff exporters scent ruin and their markets being captured by American and German coal. The manufacturers, on the other hand, flatter themselves that the effect of the tax will be to lower prices and lessen competition in iron and steel.

The grocers advanced sugar a half penny per pound this morning in London. British refined sugars were very strong and jumped 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence a hundredweight.

The Scotch manufacturing confectioners and preserve makers advanced prices 4 shillings and 6 pence and 2 shillings and 6 pence per hundredweight respectively. The Scotch sugar refiners have put on 3 shillings to 4 shillings and have abolished discounts.

There was practically no business today on the Greenock Sugar Exchange, owing to the extensive buying prior to the budget announcements.

The President of the Refiners' Association expresses the opinion that the tax will work out beneficially.

A steamer with a cargo of continental sugar arrived at Greenock last evening, after the custom house was closed, and was refused permission to unload. The duty on her cargo amounts to £2000. The importers claim that the duty on sugar had not been imposed when the steamer arrived, and therefore they will contest payment of the duty.

The budget had little general effect on the Stock Exchange here today apart from weakening consols. This premier security opened ⅛ a point lower at 94⅛, but later recovered somewhat. The price today is the lowest since 1892. Business became brisk and the market indulged in a game of ping-pong, with consols for balls.

There is reason to believe that the best financial circles approve of borrowing on consols.

There is some expectation of the new loan coming tomorrow. The market talk suggests that the issue price will be 94½, and already dealings have occurred at ½ to ¾ premium.

FEUDISTS LED BY TEACHER

The Reynolds Are Intrenched and Are Prepared to Resist Arrest.

WHITESBURG, Ky., April 19.—The Reynolds gang is intrenched on Millstone creek and the authorities cannot take them.

In an attempt to arrest the outlaws last week three of Sheriff Wright's posse were killed and two of the outlaws wounded. The Reynolds followers are willing to submit to arrest, providing they can dictate a bond for their own release, pending trial. As they have been indicted for complicity in the murder of Jemima Hall and her son, however, the authorities declare that no bond is admissible.

There are eighteen men in the Reynolds gang. The leader is John Reynolds, a young shcool teacher bearing an excellent reputation, and his followers are a hardy lot of mountain boys. They are well fortified at the home of Mrs. Nerva Reynolds on the extreme end of Millstone creek, and have stored their guns behind a 16x18 foot brick wall, with windows on each side. Lanterns are strung for 300 yards, which are lighted at night so they can see anyone approaching them.

FRANK D. RIORDAN IS DEAD.

He Was a Well-Known Chicago Broker and Speculator.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Frank D. Riordan, well known in commercial circles, and for several years a broker, with offices in the Rookery building, is dead at his home in this city. He became afflicted with heart trouble several months ago, and had gone to Texas for his health, returning only a few days ago. Mr. Riordan achieved prominence by protesting against discrimination of the board of trade in the distribution of market reports, securing an injunction to restrain the board from removing the ticker service from his office. He was 38 years of age, and leaves a family.

WALLACE BRUCE TO LECTURE.

Former Consul to Edinburg to Appear at Y. M. C. A. Hall.

Wallace Bruce, former United States Consul to Edinburg, Scotland, president of the Florida Chautauqua and one of the originators of the Chautauqua movement in this country, will lecture at Association Hall at Grand and Franklin avenues Friday evening under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. on "The Philosophy of Wit and Humor."

Preceding his lecture he will recite three of his poems on Robert Burns, including the one he wrote and delivered on the occasion of the unveiling of the poet's statue at Ayr, Scotland, in 1891.

Mr. Bruce is a poet of considerable renown. His "Old Homestead Poems" and "In Clover and Heather" have circulated widely in England and Scotland, as well as in the United States. He is an entertaining speaker and "The Philosophy of Wit and Humor" is one of the best lectures in his repertoire.

RACE AGAINST BAD NEWS

Father of Drowned Boy Trying to Cross the Ocean In Shorter Time Than His Wife, to Soothe Her.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Decatur M. Sawyer of Montclair, N. J., whose son was drowned at Lakeville, Conn., on Wednesday, is racing to Europe in an effort to reach his invalid wife before she hears of their son's death. The mother sailed Wednesday on the Majestic and the father went out 24 hours later on the Deutschland.

Mr. Sawyer did not learn of the death of his son until he was on his way to New York yesterday morning. He started for Lakeville, but before boarding the train thought of his invalid wife and changed his movements. He telephoned to his partner, Mr. Blake, and asked him to go there at once.

Mr. Sawyer then hurried to the dock, where he was just in time to board the Deutschland, which will touch at Plymouth, and it is Mr. Sawyer's intention to engage a special train there to take him to Liverpool, and in that way he will probably be able to reach the dock there before the Majestic debarks her passengers.

Young Sawyer was the last of the family to tell his mother good-by just before she sailed from here.

THE THREE ASK FOR DIVORCES

Mother and Two Daughters Have In a Year Sought Freedom From Marriage Bonds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Mrs. Fannie Miller and her daughters are convinced that marriage is a failure and that Cupid's arrows are but missiles of deceit.

Probably never before have three members of a family within a twelve-month sought to have their marriage ties severed. Less than a year ago Mrs. Fannie Miller began an action against her husband for divorce. Only three months ago her two daughters were brides at a double wedding. Now one seeks absolute divorce, the other separation.

"Men are all brutes, each and every one of them," said Sarah. "I would not give a snap of my finger for the best of them."

"So say I," said her sister Minnie.

CANADA'S RAILWAY PLANS.

Hill's Pacific Railroad Is Assured by Passage of the Bill.

TORONTO, Ont., April 19.—The government of Canada passed two bills through the railway committee which virtually secure a second independent railway to the Pacific coast. The first bill was that promoted by J. J. Hill for connecting his United States railway system with the immense coal fields of British Columbia, where hitherto the Canadian Pacific had no competitor. The main conditions of the charter are no discrimination in coal prices or freight rates, no amalgamation or pooling with other railways in the district and the government to name maximum freight rates. The government retains control of 15,000 square miles of coal land which it may put on the market any time or operate.

The second bill confirms the sale made by President Mellen of all Northern Pacific Manitoba lines to the Canadian Northern, the government retaining the power to name maximum freight rates. The Manitoba government is given power to guarantee the Canadian Northern bonds and to purchase all the old Northern Pacific lines if it so desires at the end of 30 years.

VOLUNTEERS MUSTERED OUT.

Men From 33d and 34th Infantry Win Their Final Papers.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Two regiments, the Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Volunteer Regiments, recently returned from Manila, have been mustered out. The Twenty-eighth and Thirty-fifth Infantry, now in camp at the Presidio, expect to be mustered out of service April 30.

Although there are very few troops here now under orders for the Philippines, the transports will be rushed there as quickly as possible so as to be in Manila to bring home all the volunteers to be mustered out by the 1st of July. In accordance with this program the Thomas will sail from here on Saturday and the Warren on the 25th. The assignments to the Thomas so far consist of 217 recruits and 20 casuals, under the command of Lieut. W. A. Liebler. The Twenty-fourth Infantry and 150 marines have been assigned to the Warren.

ARGENTINE FEARS CHILI.

The Latter Has Opened Warlike Passes Through the Andes.

BUENOS AYRES, April 19.—The Argentine government is alarmed by the announcement that Chili has opened a pass through the Andes at every strategetical point leading into Argentine territory. Minister of Foreign Affairs Alcorta conferred with the Chilian minister here, but as the latter was about to start for Santiago, Chili, he decided not to send a written communication to that republic.

Chili will be asked to explain her action, however, before the Chilian minister to Argentine arrives home. The Argentine minister in Chili will be directed to request an explanation.

Your Spring Cleaning

Hasn't all been done if you have not cleansed and set things to rights in your system. There are those humors that make you break out and feel tired, that take away your appetite, too.

You'll have those dull headaches, those bilious turns, fits of indigestion, that tired feeling and that eruption, until you get rid of those unhealthy accumulations.

That's certain.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cleanses the system, sets things to rights in it, makes the blood pure and rich, strengthens all the organs and functions.

That's why so many take it every Spring.

"Before taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was troubled with severe headaches and that tired feeling. My whole system seemed run down. I have taken several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and can say that I never had a medicine do me so much good. I have had no occasion to use any other medicine since I began taking Hood's." Edward F. Adams, Portageville, Mo.

DIVORCE RULINGS

JUSTICE GRAY'S EXACT LANGUAGE IN HIS DECISION.

LEGAL DOMICILE PREREQUISITE

Failure to Observe Statutory Requirements Invalidates Divorces in Other States.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Justice Gray of the United States Supreme Court has handed down his written opinion on the divorce cases, as orally rendered last Monday.

Of the three cases decided, only one, that of Streitwolf vs. Streitwolf, dealt with a Dakota divorce case. In that case the husband, a resident of Brunswick, N. J., had visited North Dakota for three weeks in May, 1897, and in August of that year returned and instituted his suit for divorce three days after his arrival the second time, never having mentioned his May visit to any of his friends or relatives in the district. The decision in the case, aside from the recital of the history of it, was very brief, being in the following words:

"The law of North Dakota requires a dimicile in good faith of the libelant for ninety days as a prerequisite to jurisdiction in a case of divorce. The facts in evidence warranted and, indeed, required, the finding that the husband had no bona fide domicile in North Dakota when he obtained a divorce there, and it is not pretended that the wife had an independent domicile in North Dakota or was ever in that state. The court of that state, therefore, had no jurisdiction."

The other case in which an outside decree was negatived was that of Bell vs. Bell, the parties to which resided in Erie County, N. Y. The case originated in 1894, and the husband, Frederick, resisted the wife's proceedings in the Supreme Court of Erie County. The decree of divorce which he claimed to have secured from a Pennsylvania court was reversed. The wife charged that this decree was fraudulent, and the court sustained the charge, holding that Bell never had resided in Pennsylvania. Sustaining that decree, Justice Gray said:

"The question in this case is of the validity of the divorce obtained by the husband in Pennsylvania. No valid divorce from the bond of matrimony can be decreed on constructive service by the courts of a state in which neither party is domiciled. And by the law of Pennsylvania a petitioner for a divorce must have had bona fide residence within the state for one year next before the filing of the petition. Therefore, the court in Pennsylvania had no jurisdiction of the husband's suit for divorce, because neither party had a domicile in Pennsylvania, and the decree of divorce was entitled to no faith and credit in New York or in any other state."

The only case of the three in which the court sustained the decree was that of Atherton vs. Atherton. In that case the record showed that the Athertons had resided in Kentucky, but that the wife deserted her husband and returned to her home in New York. The husband brought suit in Kentucky, his lawyer notifying, or attempting to notify, Mrs. Atherton of the action by sending her a copy of his petition through the mail. The New York courts held the decree to be invalid, but the decision was overruled. Justice Gray said:

"In this case the divorce in Kentucky was by the court of the state which had been the undoubted domicile of the husband, and which was the only matrimonial domicile of the husband and wife. The single question to be decided is the validity of that divorce, granted after such notice had been given as was required by the statutes of Kentucky."

Continuing, the court said that there had been due compliance with the law, even though Mrs. Atherton had failed to receive the leter inclosing a copy of the petition for divorce.

"The question," said Justice Gray in that connection, "is not whether she had actual notice of the proceedings, but whether such reasonable steps had been taken to give her notice as to bind her by the decree in the state of the domicile. We are of opinion that the undisputed facts show that such efforts as were required by the statutes of Kentucky were actually made to give the wife actual notice of the suit filed in Kentucky, so as to make the decree of the court there granting divorce upon the ground that she had abandoned her husband as binding on her as if she had been served with notice in Kentucky, or had voluntarily appeared in the suit. Binding her to that full extent, it established beyond contradiction that she had abandoned her husband and precluded her from asserting that she left him on account of his cruel treatment."

Justice Gray then concludes that as the proceeding was regular, the decree is entitled to as great credit by the courts of the State of New York as it receives in Kentucky.

OLD MAN INSTANTLY KILLED

John Lapoint Run Down by an Iron Mountain Accommodation Train in Carondelet.

John Lapoint of 409 East Marceau street was instantly killed by the incoming Bismarck accommodation train on the Iron Mountain Railway at the foot of Marceau street at 8 o'clock Friday morning.

The body was tossed to one side of the track by the fender of the locomotive and was found a few minutes later by the trainmen. Engineer William Paul of Bismarck, Mo., saw the man on the track as he was looking out of his cab window while the train came around a sharp curve at the point of the fatality.

He started to reverse his power, but the distance between the approaching locomotive and Lapoint was too short to prevent the accident. Lapoint was 70 years of age and infirm. He appeared to lose his presence of mind and was transfixed to the spot.

Paul stopped the train after it had gone a block and returned to the side of the track where the body was lying. He was accompanied by Conductor Edward Dyer of 2827 Saint Vincent avenue. The remains were removed to the residence of his son, William Lapoint, a ship carpenter, who resides at 409 East Marceau street. The coroner will make an investigation.

CHURCH ORDERED TO PAY.

Second Presbyterian Must Pay Mrs. Virginia May Halter $50.

Judge Fisher made an order Friday morning commanding the Second Presbyterian Church to pay $50 into court within ten days or be subject to an execution for that amount at the end of that time.

The order is in the garnishment proceedings of Mrs. Virginia May Halter, wife of August Halter, the church organist, against the church. The proceedings were brought to collect alimony granted Mrs. Halter by Judge Fisher Nov. 23, 1900.

August Halter brought suit for divorce on Sept. 15, 1900, making statutory charges. Pending the trial of the case Judge Fisher granted Mrs. Halter alimony in the amount of $20 a month and $75 suit money. The divorce suit has not yet come to trial.

The petition in the garnishment proceedings states that Halter's salary for the month of March, amounting to $50, became due March 31. It was alleged that this amount was subject to garnishment and Judge Fisher so held.

TWO OKLAHOMA WOMEN MAY SOON FIGHT A SECOND DUEL

Injured One, Still Hating, Issues Another Challenge.

NEWKIRK, O. T., April 19.—Mrs. Carrie Laughson, recently twice wounded in a duel with Mrs. Ella Seigillin, has again challenged her successful adversary.

Mrs. Seigillin says another duel is certain.

The meeting was at 50 yards and the pistols were 45-caliber. An ordinary pasture served as the "field of honor."

This duel was in accordance with the code in Oklahoma. Mary Seigillin, the daughter of one of the principals, dropped her handkerchief as the signal. The white smoke and sharp reports were seen and heard simultaneously.

After the first shot Mrs. Laughson was seen to flinch slightly. But she was game. Another shot was demanded. Again Mrs. Seigillin's aim was unerring. Her second shot took effect, as the first had done. Her adversary fell.

In Paris the victor would have inquired if the vanquished was much hurt. Not so in Oklahoma. The victor in this case put on her veil, picked up her skirt and walked away. With men the duel ends in feuds. With women, no. The shots make the blood hotter. The tigress is more dangerous when she is wounded.

And the vanquished! When Mrs. Carrie Laughson had recovered consciousness—for she had fainted, of course—and was told that she would not die, she immediately ordered that another challenge be sent. It was accepted.

The two women have been neighbors for several years. Jealousy was at the bottom of it all. Mrs. Seigillin hated Mrs. Laughson. Mrs. Laughson had Mrs. Seigillin arrested for trespass, and the latter was fined $300. She paid it by serving it out, and then she sent the challenge with results above stated.

Should a second duel follow it is not unlikely that there will be duels between men, for the affair is engendering hatred among the friends of the principals.

PLANNED DEATH OF MONARCHS

Proof of the Plot Laid in the United States.

PAPERS FOUND IN ARGENTINE

FIVE MEMBERS OF ROYAL FAMILIES ON THE BLACK LIST.

The Emperor of Germany, Czar of Russia, King and Queen of Italy and Count of Turin Marked for Assassination.

BUENOS AYRES, April 19.—Police of the town of Rosario, in the province of Santa Fe, have seized papers which prove that a plot against the lives of the Emperor of Germany, the Czar of Russia, the King and Queen of Italy and the Count Turin was recently laid at Paterson, N. J. Investigation was begun here on the receipt of dispatches from Berlin announcing that the police of that city had discovered a plot against the life of Emperor William. These dispatches stated that anarchists from Argentine were the moving spirits in the plan and that one named Romagnoli had been arrested.

The movements of Romagnoli, who recently left this country, were traced by government agents. It was found that he came from Rosario, where an anarchist society has long been in existence. The police of that town immediately began an investigation and finally made a raid upon the quarters of some of the most prominent anarchists. Important papers bearing upon the organization of the society were seized.

These showed that Romagnoli acted upon direct orders from Paterson. A letter was sent to him telling him that he had been chosen by lot to kill the German Emperor and instructing him to go immediately to Berlin. He left Rosario soon afterward and sailed from this port.

He did not go directly to Germany, but to Rome, where it is supposed he communicated with Italian anarchists. He then went to New York, evidently to receive final instructions from the leaders in Paterson. He came to Argentine again and held communication with his friends, and then sailed for Germany, where he was arrested before he could execute his orders.

Whether any specific action has been taken to carry out the resolution of the Paterson society for the assassination of the Czar of Russia and the Italian rulers the police will not say. The German, Italian and Russian legations, however, have been placed in possession of the facts.

LOUIS MORRIS SERIOUSLY ILL.

Well-Known Stockman Subjected to Severe Operation.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Louis Morris, one of the best known stockmen in the yards, and a brother of Nelson Morris, the wealthy packer, has been subjected to a severe operation for cancer of the stomach and now lies in Wesley Hospital in a critical condition.

Mr. Morris was born in Hackenden, Germany, 61 years ago. He served with distinction in the Franco-Prussian war and for honor displayed on the field of battle was decorated with the Iron Cross by Emperor Frederick. On coming to this country Mr. Morris immediately made his residence in this city, engaging in the live stock business with his brother. Mr. Morris is a widower, his wife having died in California two years ago.

Fishes Exchange Compliments.

The head of the United States Fish Commission is known to his subordinates as "the boss sucker." A dumb-witted Irishman made the title stick. One day a raw Dutchman who wanted work as a laborer came along. The Irishman flippantly and impatiently told the solemn Teuton to ask the boss sucker in the office about it. The German took his advice. "Mister Boss Sucker, I vant a schob," said Germany, addressing Commissioner Bowers. "You do, eh?" inquired Bowers, looking sternly at the applicant, in whose face there was no evidence that he might know there was something wrong with the title. "Who sent you here?" "I don't know vat bees name is, but he is yust oudt dare. I vill ask been." The German stepped out and returned in a minute. "He saidt it was Mullethet, und dot you know him vell." This answer nonplussed the commissioner, and he started the laugh at his own expense. The German got the job, the Irishman is still on the payroll, and the commissioner no longer regards his unofficial title as offensive.

COURT ASKS REPORT

JUDGE FERRISS INVESTIGATING CONCEALED WEAPONS.

THINKS THEY CAUSE CRIME

Directs Chief Kiely to Gather Statistics of Arrests Traced to This Cause.

Judge Franklin Ferriss of the criminal division of the Circuit Court has requested Chief of Police Kiely to prepare for him an estimate of the number of persons arrested during the past six months on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Judge Ferriss intimated to the Post-Dispatch that the information will be used by him either as the basis of a letter to Mayor Wells or in the preparation of special instructions to the grandjury to be delivered by him from the bench.

While he disclaims the role of crusader, he frankly expresses his belief that 90 per cent of the arrests made by the police can be traced to a failure to enforce the law prohibiting the carrying of concealed arms.

"The idea of calling attention to the belief that our officials do not strictly enforce this law is the result of my observation while engaged upon the criminal business of this court," said Judge Ferriss.

"I am interested in learning the proportion of arrests within a period of time, where the crime has been suggested to the culprit by the possession of a weapon which he is unlawfully carrying. The disposition of these cases in the courts will show, on the other hand, how effectively justice is being meted out.

"I am convinced that very few offenders against the concealed weapon statute are sent to the workhouse. This indicates that the severe punishment provided for by the law is not applied by the officials who are charged with the duty of meting it out.

"The mayor is authorized to issue permits to persons who are entitled, in his judgment, to go armed in defense of property or their own persons, and he has the power to remit any fines which may have been assessed against one who offends in this regard. If this power is used by him without extreme caution he is assisting rather than helping to suppress it. Often the remitting of a fine or other punishment inflicted by a police magistrate contradicts the purpose of the lesson sought to be impressed by the court which has passed sentence. It is also a question whether the lower courts are not dealing too lightly with most of the cases of this character."

Chief Kiely is now engaged in preparing the statement which is required, and expects to deliver it to Judge Ferriss in a few days.

DEPORTED FROM MANILA.

Son of Antonio Maceo, the Famous Cuban Leader.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 19.—The transport Rosecrans brought from Manila five men who had been deported by the military authorities. Among them was Santiago Maceo, a son of the late Cuban leader, Antonio Maceo. Young Maceo came into prominence on the Pacific coast two years ago while traveling with Katherine Thigley, the theosophical leader. He fell out with Mrs. Tingley, claiming that he was treated as a servant. While in the Philippines Maceo became a first sergeant of the Macabebo scouts. He was accused of giving information to the Filipino troops and was dismissed from the army, and because of the supposed menace of his presence in the island Gen. MacArthur ordered his deportation.

ELOPED WITH A MERE BOY.

Farmer's Wife Took His $800 and the 17-Year-Old Farm Hand.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., April 19.—Jeremiah Perkins of Cape Neddick reported to the police that his wife had disappeared from home on Wednesday afternoon, and with her $800 and a young man named Edward Foss, who for the past six months has been boarding at the Perkins house. The deserted husband says that Mrs. Perkins was completely infatuated with the Foss boy, and he thinks she induced the lad to elope with her, the money took being Mr. Perkins' savings for several years. Mrs. Perkins is 37 years of age and the mother of two children, while Foss was only a boy of 17 years. It is thought that the couple went to Boston.

ARTIST WOLFROM IN AN ASYLUM

Made Insne by Loss of His Studio.

HOPED SOON TO WED

PRETTY ANETTA TRASOR HAD WON HIS HEART IN PARIS.

Great American Sculptor and Painter Was Planning to Return to Europe—The Fire Destroyed His Reason.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Pathetic was the picture yesterday when Philip Wolfrom, cowboy, athlete, student, who, love denied him, gave himself to art—Wolfrom whom Tissot and Munkaczy had painted as the Christ—in Jefferson Market Police Court was sent away to Bellevue's insane ward.

Fire last Thursday morning fell upon his studio. Flames wiped out the works of art on which his hopes in life were based. He fought in vain to save them and when all was over turned away with laughter—a maniac's laugh.

And in that laugh there lies the pathos of this story—the story of a boy born with the spark of genius in his soul, who breathed in genius amid the solitude of the great plains, whose delicate, artistic mind was doomed to two great disappointments, at the very threshold of a most promising career.

Loved the Flowers and All Nature.

Philip Wolfrom was born in Duluth, Minn., of stanch parents—of the kind that went westward on the first wave of pioneering. He early began to notice the beautiful in nature. To all dumb creatures he was kind and gentle. He loved the flowers and nature.

This love early drove him into the saddle. To earn a living and to enjoy the wild free life of the plains he took to herding cattle. He quickly learned to shoot with the revolver in a way that startled older cowboys, to handle the curling lasso with surpassing skill.

Out on the plains he used to read novels and to study books while in the saddle. The old, wild, sweet ambition that every boy of spirit has came to him. He plunged eastward and four years ago struck New York—a stranger. He frequented museums and libraries. He studied night and day. And back in Minnesota an old mother prayed.

Riding in Central Park policemen saw his horsemanship. Soon he was asked to teach a class of New York's bluecoats the art of riding. He took the class, was talked about, and what he earned he spent in the art schools.

His bright, open, handsome face, the bronze of the plains still on it, attracted the attention of S. Louis Mora and Prof. Chase. They looked at his sketches and bade him go to Paris and study.

He went. What matter to him whether he had money to live on there or not. To such fellows all things come. He reached the Latin Quarter with the best of letters of introduction in his pocket—and kept him there.

Vainly Loved a Paris Art Student.

But Paris quickly found him out. They told him at Bozart's that he must be hazed. They warned him that he would suffer if he resisted it. Laughingly he bade them to wait till the next day.

Next morning the hazers came. They found him sitting on the posing platform in deerskins, a brace of revolvers at his waist, a rawhide lasso in his hands.

With a hiss the rawhide sprang from his sturdy arm, and circled down on the head of the chief hazer. Quickly he was hauled up and his wrist cut off. Releasing himself, the cowboy artist picked another and pulled him to the platform. The rest fled.

The lasso was a novelty to Paris. The cowboy became a favorite. Today his figure is to be seen in many a European studio, for he willingly posed for his schoolmates.

Tissot and Munkaczy visited the school. They saw the handsome figure of the Westerner. They saw his gentle face, the kindness that shone in his eyes. The peace, the subdued energy, the lack of selfishness in his face made him their model for "The Christ" in those pictures that are famous.

He fell in love. She was an art student. Anetta Trasor, daughter of Vienna parents. She was too strongly wedded to her art. The plainsman's wooing was in vain.

It was just after that, in March, 1895, his sister Annie, found him lying ill in Boulogne-sur-Mer, and brought him home. Pale and emaciated he took passage with her on the steamship Rotterdam. He stood on deck till the blue and purple shores of France vanished below the horizon, then turned to babble mildly of Anetta Trasor. When they tried to reason with him madness seized him still more violently and a straitjacket was resorted to.

His friend, Seymour Burrell of Duluth, came with him. He and the sister took Wolfrom to Bellevue, where ultimately he recovered completely.

He wrote to the Vienna girl to wait for him; he would win fame and fortune.

All Europe Admired His Sculptured Animals.

Here in New York he began again. His study in Paris had greatly improved him. He was reckoned a master. He began to show his hand at sculpturing animals. Thousands admired his sculptured broncos and steers. His masterpiece is supposed to be an elephant, now on exhibition at the Academy of Design.

Other artists in the West Fourteenth street studio building said he was killing himself with work. Those who knew of the Vienna sweetheart shook their heads.

His studio was filled with the best work, worth a fortune in itself. Wealthy folk admired and offered to buy. Several pieces he was finishing meant to him another trip to Paris. It was his hope to go to Paris and claim the little Vienna art student this spring.

But it was not to be.

Last Thursday morning he went out for his coffee and rolls. He was only a boy, for all his success. As he returned he hummed an old-fashioned tune that his mother had taught him.

Suddenly there was a cry of fire. Smoke burst from his studio. Firemen arrived at the same time that he did. He tried to force his way into the room. They held him back. It was too late to save anything. With a look of sorrow he started to talk about his paintings and models.

Then, with a laugh, he turned away—the delicate mind of the artist was unstrung once more.

He rushed into the street and disappeared. An hour later he appeared at the home of Mrs. Stumm, in East Twenty-first street. He had talked incoherently and raved about his Vienna sweetheart, but said nothing about the fire.

In a little while he rushed out. He made his way to Miss Maud Stumm's studio in West Twenty-third street. There he sat down at an easel. Over and over he tried to catch an expression on the cloth, but it would not come. He talked incoherently, and Miss Stumm was frightened.

That night he sat all the night on his stairs. Those who passed thought him drunk. Next morning he returned to Miss Stumm's studio and an elevator boy called in a policeman.

In the Jefferson Market Court yesterday Miss Stumm sadly made complaint against her old friend, charging that he was insane. He was sent to Bellevue that his mental condition might be determined.

Mrs. Stumm telegraphed his sister in Kansas City, and his family will take charge of him. It is hoped that he will recover.

Social Quibbles Must Soon End.

The clerks and employes in the census office are an amusing lot. They are all soon to be on an even footing, if footing there be in the Slough of Despond (represented in this case by the certainty of early dismissal), and yet there is an animated discussion going on whether an employe doing clerical work is not better socially than one who operates a tabulating machine. The clerk appointed as a skilled laborer at $50 a month is sure she is much better than the tabulator who gets $75 a month and is rated as a clerk. Both agree, however, that they are so far above the girl who punches holes in cards such as the tabulators use, even if the puncher is a $1000 a year clerk. Everybody has persuaded herself that the girl who sorts the punched cards isn't much. But the pariah of the whole office is the girl who works in section "Q." The others call that the hospital or asylum for feeble minded, because it is an office impression that that is where clerks are sent when it has been demonstrated that they are not fitted for either writing, tabulating, punching or sorting. Every girl elevates her nose at an "inmate" of section "Q," using her hands, if necessary, to make the elevation unmistakable.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

GIVE PERFECT DIGESTION, SOUND SLEEP, STRONG NERVES.

A Popular Remedy for Dyspepsia Which Has Made Many Remarkable Cures.

The spring of the year is the time for blood purifiers. It is the season when we think we must dose ourselves with sarsaparillas, bitters and the endless list of so-called blood purifiers and nerve tonics.

As a matter of fact, there is but one possible way in which to purify the blood and that is, through the stomach and bowels.

Pure blood results from wholesome food thoroughly digested. Impure blood results from poor digestion and assimilation. When the stomach refuses to work properly the food remains too long a time, fermenting, forming gases, shown by sour, bitter taste in the mouth, bloating and belching of gas, and distress and discomfort generally. Poor blood, weak nerves, sleeplessness and a general don't care feeling can always be traced to imperfect digestion.

This is the reason why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are superior to all other spring medicines and blood purifiers. They give perfect digestion, the food does not lie in the stomach for hours. They give a vigorous appetite, sound sleep, strong nerves, and wholesome food well digested makes pure blood, and in no other way can the blood be purified. The idea that a medicine, in itself, will purify the blood when the stomach and digestive organs are out of order is nonsense. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used by thousands in preference to "bitters," "after dinner pills" and "blood purifiers" because they remove the cause of the impure blood, and you do not have to take them forever to get results. Dyspepsia is an obstinate disease to cure and a remedy must be designed especially for it and nothing else. Cure-alls will not cure dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not claimed to cure everything or anything except Dyspepsia and stomach troubles and for that it stands along among patent medicines. Anyone suffering from any trouble with their digestion will find these tablets will give immediate relief and permanent cure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are prepared by the F. A. Stuart Co. of Marshall, Mich., and sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. No dieting nor change of habits is required, they digest the food.

MRS. BOWMAN DISAPPEARED

She Left Her Kentucky Home Three Weeks Ago.

FATHER LIVES IN ST. LOUIS

SHE ELOPED TO CLAYTON WITH JOHN BOWMAN.

Left Her Home in Shepardsville Ostensibly to Pay a Store Bill and Has Not Been Seen Since by Her Friends.

Mrs. Sadie Spooner Bowman, daughter of Frank Bowman, a contractor residing at 4580 St. Louis avenue, disappeared three weeks ago from the home of her husband, John Bowman, at Shepardsville, Ky., and the police of St. Louis and Louisville, Ky., are trying to locate her.

She is pretty, and but 20 years old. Two years ago her stepmother, Mrs. Spooner, says, she eloped to Clayton and was married to John Bowman, a brother of Alma Bowman, the 16-year-old girl who figured several months ago in the arrest of her brother-in-law, Asa Buchanan, who was accused by her Kentucky relatives with kidnaping her.

At the time of her disappearance Mrs. Bowman was supposed to be on the way to pay a bill for household goods.

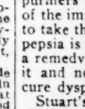

She had $6 in her possession. She did not return from her mission and the family has obtained no trace of her, although her appearance in St. Louis has been expected by her father. The first intimation he had that she was missing was received through a letter written by her husband to his father-in-law in which he inquired whether Mrs. Bowman had arrived in this city.

Mrs. Spooner says her stepdaughter left her husband some time after their marriage, but that their differences were arranged satisfactorily and she went back to Kentucky several months ago. Edward Bittner is superintendent of the Missouri Crematory. He is an uncle of Mrs. Bowman and he is assisting in the search.

Mrs. Bowman is a brunette with fine gray eyes and fair complexion. She weighs about 135 pounds, is five feet and six inches in height.

HE GAVE BACK THE CHANGE.

New York Policeman and the Tip the Englishman Handed Him.

"I was standing in front of one of the Broadway hotels in New York one afternoon last week," said a railway mail clerk who has a run between the capital and the big town, "when a typical Englishman, in broadgauge tweeds and with a fore-and-aft cap, who had obviously only been off the steamer a very short time, stepped out of the hotel, and, spying a huge cop—one of the gigantic Broadway squad—standing on the corner, hailed him thus:

"'Hi there, bobby, come heah!'

"The cop looked surprized at first. Then he grinned at the man with whom he was talking and walked over to the Britisher. The latter flipped a 5-cent piece at the cop and said:

"'I say, bobby; just run down to the cohnah and get me a cab, theah's a deah fellow.'

"The cop had deftly caught the nickel, and he looked at it curiously.

"'What's this?' he inquired of the Englishman.

"'O, that's for you, me bobby,' said the Englishman. 'Get youahself a dram with it—and, I say, make haste and get me the cab, will you, like a good chawp?'

"The cop, I could see, did not know whether to get sore or not. He probably didn't know about the custom of giving tuppence or such like to the bobbies abroad. However, he thought better of it. If he had any idea of getting sore. He pulled off his right glove, dug into his right hand trousers pocket, pulled out a bunch of change, picked out four pennies and handed them to the surprised Britisher.

"'I say, y'know, what's this?' inquired the Englishman.

"'That's your change, Algie,' said the cop, and then he gave a whistle between his teeth for a cabman that passed just then, put the nickel in his pocket and strode away, grinning.

"Did the Englishman catch on? Not at all.

"'Deuced obliging chawps, these Americans bobbies, I declah!' I heard him mutter to himself as he stepped out to the cab. 'Bah Jove, who'd have thought they'd make change for a fellah.'"

A Premium on Celibacy.

In Denmark there's a premium on spinsterhood. A celibacy insurance company has been founded, and between an insurance policy and a husband a Danish maiden's heart is rent with indecision. If the holder of a policy in the celibacy is still unmarried at 40 she is considered immune, and gets a life annuity. If she marries before 40 she forfeits her policy and premiums.

The Wonder of the Century.

READY COOKED FOOD.

A Great Convenience for Housekeepers.

Two young ladies in a certain city are employed down town and rent a small flat, where they do light housekeeping. Frequently they are invited out evenings, and the subject of meals is a puzzler.

Of late they have solved the problem by keeping some nice rich milk or cream convenient and a package of dry crisp Grape-Nuts nearby.

In thirty seconds the meal is ready and it is a most fascinating meal, too, for the creamy taste blends with the peculiar delicate sweet of the grape sugar in the Grape-Nuts producing a never-to-be-forgotten flavor. The sustaining power of the food is sufficient to keep one well nourished even when a small amount is used.

SPONSOR FOR THE OHIO,

THE NEW BATTLE SHIP

HAS AT LAST BEEN NAMED

WINE, NOT WATER, WILL BE USED AT THE CHRISTENING.

The christening of the battle ship Ohio will be the big function of the visit of President McKinley and his party to San Francisco.

Ever since the definite announcement that the President would go to California the question as to who should spill the contents of the bottle over the prow of the Ohio has occasioned comment.

If, as was at first suggested, Mrs. Worthington Babcock had accepted the honor tendered by her stepfather, Gov. Nash of Ohio, that would have settled it. But Mrs. Babcock's health may not permit her to be present. However, she has not definitely decided that she cannot be.

In view of the uncertainty the question came up as to who should go in her stead. The governor of Ohio has therefore named as the "understudy" Miss Helen Deshler, daughter of W. G. Deshler, a Columbus banker and capitalist.

She has accepted the invitation, provided Mrs. Babcock shall decide at the last moment that she cannot attend.

All christenings of warships, as well as others, are preceded by a dispute as to whether water or wine shall be used, and Ohio will be no exception. Mrs. Anna Clark, state president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Ohio, received a telegram recently asking the Ohio organization to protest to the Ohio Society of California against the serving of wine at the banquet to be given to Mrs. McKinley and the ladies of the cabinet.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union women also protest against using wine to christen the new ship. Mrs. Mary L. Mozart, president of the Ladies' Society of San Francisco, has announced that the society intends to serve wine.

"I am in favor of wine," said Mrs. Mozart. "My secretary is in favor of wine, the majority of the members are in favor of wine, and wine there will be."

Mrs. Clark is preparing a protest to send to Gov. Nash on behalf of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union members.

The christening of a warship or any other vessel by a married woman is unusual, and when Mrs. Babcock was first selected to sprinkle the Ohio there was a protest in certain quarters, but this has died out.

FOR OLD AGE

To the old, as to babies, the even balance of health is more important than anything else in the world. The possible health, in age, is not high and strong; it is only even.

There is no end, but death, to the trouble that comes of its loss. It ought to be watched like a baby's.

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil for very old and very young—in different ways—is the food to secure this even health.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

AVERTED THE STEEL STRIKE

INCIDENT OF HIS RECENT VISIT TO BRADDOCK MILLS.

President Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association Explains What His Organization Won in the Contest With the Trust.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BRADDOCK, Pa., April 19.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the steel trust, knows how to make himself solid with his workingmen. He put a stop to the threatened strike at McKeesport yesterday after an old-time handshaking visit to the Edgar Thomson steel works. The men there are therefore singing his praises today.

Twenty-two years ago Mr. Schwab came to Braddock as a young civil engineer, and at the Edgar Thomson works were many men whom he came in daily contact with. For each one he had a pleasant word.

Mr. Schwab, on his tour of inspection, was accompanied by William E. Corey, the new president of the Carnegie Steel Co. He was escorted through the plant by General Manager Thomas Morrison, who is a cousin of Andrew Carnegie.

Several times during the tour workmen shouted: "Goodby, Charlie! Good luck be with you."

"How are you, Howell?" said Mr. Schwab, as he extended his hand to "Old Howell" Williams who greases the trucks which carry the molds from the converting mill. Williams was using his oil can when Mr. Schwab greeted him, and he held back his greasy hand.

"Come, Howell, I'm glad to see you. How have you been getting on?" And Mr. Schwab grasped the hand of the laborer.

"I haven't had it easy, Mr. Schwab, but I'm getting along," answered Williams.

"I know it is hard for you, Howell, and I'll see what I can do. You shall be taken care of. Good-by," and Mr. Schwab went on.

Williams has been employed at the Edgar Thomson works for 22 years.

"Well, Pat, I'm glad to see you, but sorry to see you are suffering. What's the matter," This was the greeting to Patrick Shea, a water carrier, 63 years old, who went into Mr. Carnegie's service in 1876. Shea told his troubles; a painful physical ailment.

"Pat, you must come to New York, and I will see that you get the best medical aid," Mr. Schwab said.

"God bless you, Charlie," replied Shea.

"Peter, you're still with us," said Mr. Schwab to Peter McVerry, 68 years old, whom he went out of his way to find in a little back shanty. "You are getting old, Peter, but you don't look it. We must take care of you old men; you have served us long."

"Yes, 23 years, Mr. Schwab," answered Peter. "But I'm glad I'm still living."

McVerry had been a laborer during all his term of service. He has raised nine children, and Mr. Schwab asked about their health.

Mark Coyne, the janitor of the building, who this month passed his half century mark, came out as the party reached the office.

"Martin, how are you?" asked Mr. Schwab. "You don't look prosperous."

"No, things have been going somewhat hard with me since you left, Charlie."

"We'll lighten things up a little in memory of 'old lang syne,'" replied Mr. Schwab, and he whispered to General Manager Morrison. Mr. Morrison went into the cashier's office, returning with two bulky envelopes, one filled with gold eagles and double eagles, the other with five, ten, twenty and fifty dollar bills, the whole aggregating $1000.

These Mr. Schwab handed to the astonished Mark, and before Coyne could express his thanks the former colleague said:

"'Old lang syne. Good-by, Martin," with a clasp of the hand. Mr. Schwab's visit was over and the party boarded a private car.

Coyne carried the line and stick and set pegs for "Charlie" Schwab at the start of his career as a civil and mechanical engineer. Coyne said today:

"Charlie Schwab never felt himself above any man."

TRUST RECOGNIZES THE UNION.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 19.—Labor President Shaffer said to the Post-Dispatch correspondent today that when the new agreements were presented they would be found to contain a clause by which the Amalgamated Association will be recognized by the steel trust, and more, the agreements would be between the association and the steel combine and not by the men as individuals.

Mr. Shaffer and the other members of the advisory board are jubilant at the way the threatened strike was averted.

"You notice," said the president, "that the association is officially recognized by the steel trust. We are perfectly satisfied with the result of our protest. We do not feel the arrogance of victory. We are fighting for existence and have won. I told you that the combine must recognize the union and that we would stand forever flat-footed on this principle.

"Mr. Jarrett had been treating with us unofficially, with the understanding, however, that whatever he did would be approved by the combine. We required of him that he or some one should talk to us officially and directly.

"Later a man, whose name I shall withhold, by his request, appeared, armed with the powers of a minister plenipotentiary from the Morgan trust. Finally we agreed, Mr. Jarrett signing for the combine.

"I knew we should win. What would these big concerns do about paying dividends on their watered stock if their mills were paralyzed? There is where we felt secure."

Mr. Jarrett was all smiles after the meeting. "It's all right, just as I told you," said he. "Neither side wanted a strike, so there were mutual concessions. There will be no question raised until July, and then we will agree amicably."

Before he went into the employ of the sheet steel trust as the head of its labor bureau Jarrett was president of the Amalgamated Association. Mr. Shaffer was in early life a Methodist parson. He still bears a ministerial air and talks oratorically. The members of the advisory board have returned to their homes.

STEEL ORDERS FROM ABROAD.

Out of Many Received, One Order Is for $780,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—That the $1,000,000,000 steel trust is going to enter the foreign field with all possible dispatch is shown by a contract made within the last few hours.

The Carnegie Steel Co. has been awarded a contract for 20,000 tons of steel plates by the Harland & Wolff Shipbuilding Co. of Belfast, Ireland. This is the largest contract ever placed in this country for steel plates. It is worth $780,000.

A majority of the Clyde shipbuilding concerns have recently made contracts with American mills for their steel plate requirements for many months ahead. The contracts are being placed now for fear that the trust will shortly advance prices.

Another important steel contract has been made by the Dundee Corporation of Dundee, Scotland, with the Lorain Steel Co. of Lorain, O., for 1500 tons of steel rails, to be used in completing the tramway system of that city.

The same concern has been awarded a contract for 2400 tons of rails, fish plates, etc., for the Glasgow Municipal Road.

STANDARD OIL DIVIDEND

Twenty Per Cent to Be Declared on May 1 and Readjustment to Take Place.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The Standard Oil Company will declare a dividend about May 1 of 20 per cent on its capital stock of $100,000,000. At the same time the plan will probably be adopted of increasing the capital stock of the company from $100,000,000 to $400,000,000. The increase of the capital stock will be, in reality, an adjustment. Four shares of the new stock will be given in exchange for one of the old. The stock is quoted at present at its top figure, 805, so that a share of the new stock will be worth in the market approximately $200.

TO FIGHT THE OIL TRUST.

Texas Well Owners Will Form a Gigantic Corporation at Once.

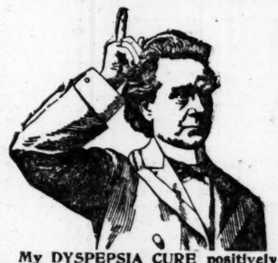

AUSTIN, Tex., April 19.—It was announced by the promoters of the gigantic oil corporation that its principal object is to build and operate oil-pipe lines to Houston and Port Arthur, and also probably to New Orleans and Galveston from the Beaumont oil field. A large amount of money will also be expended in building storage tanks, oil steamers and barges and cars.

The proposed amalgamation of independent oil companies now operating in the Beaumont oil field into one corporation, with a capital stock of $50,000,000, for the purpose of competing with the Standard Oil Co. in the production and marketing of oil, may be contrary to certain provisions of the Texas anti-trust law.

In order to be safe on this point, parties who are interested in perfecting the proposed combine were here today and consulted with Attorney-General C. K. Bell on the question. The latter will examine into the matter and render an opinion when he has reached a conclusion as to whether the proposed combine will be a violation of the anti-trust law.

MORTGAGES ESCAPED TAX.

Over $9000,000 in Value Found in Shelby County.

MOWEAQUA, Ill., April 19.—The mortgage records in Shelby County examined by a committee appointed from the board of supervisors has revealed the fact that between 1894 and 1900 mortgages to the amount of $9,000,000 have been discovered upon which no tax has been paid. Parties interested to the number of 1500, residing in all parts of the county, have been notified and are now making a settlement. The total amount of the tax due the county from this source will exceed $18,000.

ILLINOIS STATE ARSENAL.

Appropriation of $150,000 Has Been Recommended.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 19.—The house committee on appropriations has recommended an appropriation of $150,000 for the erection of a state arsenal, armory and museum. This city offers a site free of cost, which they value at $50,000. The committee prepared a bill itself changing the provisions so as to make the governor, secretary of state and state auditor the board to have charge of the institution, and including also the museum feature in the bill, the idea being to remove the agricultural and natural history museum from the capitol building to the new building.

VARICOCELE.

A Safe, Painless and Bloodless Cure.

DOCTOR COOK.

Whatever may be the cause of Varicocele, its injurious effect is well known. It depresses the mind, weakens the body, racks the nervous system and ultimately leads to a complete loss of sexual power.

If you are a victim of this dire disease come to my office and let me explain to you my process of treating it. You will then not wonder why I have positively cured more than 700 cases of varicocele during the past 12 months.

Under my treatment the patient improves from the very beginning. All pain instantly ceases. Soreness and swelling quickly subside. The pools of stagnant blood are forced from the dilated veins, which rapidly assume their normal size, strength and soundness. All indications of disease and weakness vanish completely, and in their stead come the pride, the power and the pleasures of perfect health and restored manhood.

I also cure to stay cured STRICTURE, SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON, NERVOUS DEBILITY and all reflex complications and associate diseases and weaknesses of men. To these maladies alone I have earnestly devoted 23 of the best years of my life. Physicians having stubborn cases to treat are cordially invited to consult with me. I make no charge for private counsel, and give to each patient a legal contract in writing, backed by abundant capital, to hold for my promises. Is it not worth while to investigate a cure that has made life anew to multitudes of men?

If you cannot call at my office, write your symptoms fully. I have the most perfect system of home treatment known to medical science. Address all letters to

PRISONER IN A BOXCAR.

Lad From Pullman Rescued After Four Days of Thirst and Hunger.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Io., April 19.—When opened by train hands Joe Wagner, a 13-year-old boy, whose home is in Pullman, Ill., was found locked in an empty freight car forming part of a train which reached the Northwestern local yards. The boy had been an unwilling prisoner in the car since Monday morning, without food or water, and was almost unconscious when released. Young Wagner says he was playing in the railway yards in Pullman and hid in the car from some of his companions. The doors were suddenly shut and locked and the train started. All attempts of the boy to attract attention and secure his release failed, and it was by merest chance he was discovered when the train reached this city. His parents live at 4931 Justin street, Pullman. He is being cared for at police headquarters.

MISS CLEVELAND IN MAINE.

Sister of the Ex-President Preparing to Spend Her Summer There.

ROCKLAND, Me., April 19.—Miss Rose E. Cleveland, sister of ex-President Cleveland, accompanied by her niece, Miss Ames of Boston, and by Mr. and Mrs. George M. Newell of Boston, have arrived here on their way to Islesboro, where they will make preparations for spending the season. In the early days of the first Cleveland administration, Miss Cleveland was the lady of the White House. Miss Cleveland has had a summer house built there, and among other guests who will be entertained there in the summer is ex-President Cleveland, who plans to make a short visit in about a month.

The Skin AN INDEX TO THE BLOOD

Millions of little glands or tubes connect the blood with the skin, and through these small drain pipes perspiration passes out, carrying with it the impurities that are thrown off by the blood. Should the pores of the skin be entirely closed for even a brief space of time, and the poisonous matter forced back into the circulation, instant death would result. In addition to the sweat glands, the skin is provided with certain others which pour out upon it an oily substance, keeping the skin pliable and soft and protecting it from heat and cold. The blood and skin are so closely related that whatever affects one seriously interferes with the functions of the other. Not only health, but life itself, depends upon perfect harmony between the blood and skin. When, therefore, the blood becomes poisoned from any cause, it quickly manifests itself upon the skin in the form of sores and ulcers, pimples and various eruptive diseases. By the character of the sore we are enabled to determine the nature of the poison or humor in the blood, as every disease originating in the blood has its own peculiar sore or pimple. The skin is not only affected by the poisons generated in the system, but poisons from without enter through the open glands or pores and quickly infect the blood. Mercury rubbed upon the skin will produce Rheumatism, and Poison Oak and Ivy and other wild plants gain easy access to the blood through the skin. As so-called skin diseases originate in the blood, the application of powders, soaps and washes can do no permanent good, but often do immense damage by closing up the outlet to these little tubes and interfering with the natural action of the skin. The treatment must begin with the blood, and the acid or other poisons antidoted or neutralized. S. S. S. does this and purifies the circulation, builds up the blood and flushes the little glands or pores with pure, new blood, and restores healthy action to the skin. The use of cosmetics never yet brought health and beauty to a rough, red, pimply skin or sallow complexion. What is needed is rich, pure blood, such as S. S. S. makes. It not only relieves you of all disfiguring blackheads, blotches and irritating, itching eruptions, but improves your general health. S. S. S. contains no mercury, potash, arsenic or other mineral, but is a purely vegetable remedy and the safest and best in all blood and skin troubles. Write our physicians for advice or information; they have made a study of blood and skin diseases, and you can have the best medical advice without cost. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free.

WOMAN DEFIES JERSEY COUNTY

Mrs. Louisa Feyhl Is Strong of Arm.

WILL SAVE HER TREES

REFUSES TO ALLOW ROOM FOR A NEW TROLLEY LINE.

Declares She Bought the Orchard With Her Own Money and Pities the Man Who Harms a Single Bough.

MILLVILLE, N. J., April 19.—Louisa Feyhl has defied the majesty of Cumberland County, New Jersey. She has spurned the township of Landis and its commissioners, and she has declared relentless war on the Millville Traction Co. and its construction gang of 100 men. Single handed she has once held them in dismay, and single handed she proposes to put up a fight that will become memorable in Cumberland County.

It is all on account of her apple orchard. This comprises 23 trees, one-half the fecund branches of which overhang the Vineland pike. They produce the finest "strawberry apples" to be found in the seven miles between Vineland and Millville. And now, because these branches grow directly in the line of way to be followed by the new trolley road, which the Millville Traction Co. is building to Vineland, they want to hew them away to make room for their wires and poles.

To be sure, Louisa Fehyl signed a "right-of-way" paper for the company, as did the other property owners along the way, ninety-nine out of every hundred of them seeing in the new line an improvement which would soon give moneyed worth to their comparatively valueless lands. To be sure, also, the famous apples overhang and grow out on the road for a distance of four rods beyond the line of public highway, years ago set by the county. But Louisa Feyhl cares not for these trifles. The "right-of-way" she signed meant only that the trolley company could construct their line down the middle of the pike, she says, and as for the county—what has it to do with her apple trees?

She Is the Man of the Family.

She has five children and a husband They are mentioned in this order advisedly. As Mrs. Feyhl herself—and the "Mrs." seems oddly out of place—says: "My husband, he's a good enough man, so far as he goes; but he's pretty slow. I have to push him along. De man's part—dat's mine. He likes to keep in de back. But I stand right out, I do, und do de talking." So, as she explains, she is practically the man of the place. Eight years ago they bought the place, and the soil not being over-productive, it has not been an easy life.

Toil and the battle with Mother Earth have strongly developed an original masculine nature in Louisa Feyhl until she has come to be known as good a "man" as any in the county. It is even related that once, having delivered a barrel of cider made from the very apples she now fights to protect, the purchaser told her to leave it in the yard; that he would wait until he could get a couple of men to carry it down the cellar. "Oh, you vant it in the cellar, eh?" she replied. And, so the story goes, she picked up the barrel and carried it down as though it had been a pumpkin.

For she is a woman of six feet, broad and deep of chest, and weighing close on to 300 pounds. There is determination and pluck in her eye, and a something of humor, too. Yet the ways of counties and township commissioners are as sealed books to her, for she only knows that she bought the farm and paid for it, apple trees and all.

Warned Woodmen Not to Touch Her Trees.

When the surveyors for the trolley company, one day last week, reached her farm, which lies in Landis Township, near South Vineland, she told them this, in language less elegant than forceful, and added that they might build their trolley to a certain warm region if they wished, but that the first man who touched as much as a twig of her apple trees would never know what struck him. She stood out in the middle of the road as she said this, and the corps of men held back in alarm.

"The first man vat lays a finger on vun of dem trees," she proclaimed, "now or any other times, I pities him; dat's all." And when the men looked at her and remembered the story of the barrel of cider they decided to postpone the test.

But the company had dug its way through backwoods, and had gone over railroads by means of expensive trestle arches and embankments, and now that it had struck the fair road it did not intend to retreat under the fire of Louisa Feyhl, especially as they had all the law on their side. So the majesty of the township committee was invoked, and the owner of the trees was told that they must be sliced down.

She only laughed at them, engaged a lawyer—more out of respect to custom than in any faith—and, rolling up her sleeves, bade them come on. One hundred men are to reach her farm tomorrow in the construction gang of the road, and Louisa Feyhl is ready for them all.

A reporter drove to Mrs. Feyhl's farm and obtained her views in the case. Here they are:

"I teel dot feller vat comes here to say does trees must be cut down, because dey vas over on de road. 'Say, dem trees vas not planted last Saturday ven I see de trolley line comin' over dis way. Nor dey vasn't planted last year; no, nor seven nor ten years ago. Dey vas here ven I bought dis place, and dere dey stood and dere dey shall stand, by heafens; yes!"

"He says only dot part vat is ofer on de road should be cut down, and it wouldn't do no harm. Vat foolishness! Suppose some one come 'long vid a ax und chop off your toes! Dot don't hurt you, eh? Vell, it is de same mit dose drees.

"But dis trolley! Vat goot dot do me? I lose dem trees, dose apples, dat cider—und I have vonce paid for it! Vat do I care about dot road, or vere de county says it is! Dat's vere it vas when I bought it; dot's vat I pay for; dot's vhere it's going to stay yet.

"I give 'em all a good fight yet. Just vait! My husband? Oh, yes, he's a good enough man, but he's slow."

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Bank Bookkeeper Said to Have Taken $35,000.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 19.—A. J. Schroth, a bookkeeper in the First National Bank of Birmingham, this city, was arrested late last night by United States Marshal Leonard, charged with the embezzlement of $35,000 of the bank's funds. He was released later on furnishing bail in the sum of $10,000. The alleged defalcation was discovered by National Bank Examiner Slack. Mr. Slack says the bank is in excellent condition and will not be affected. It has a capital stock of $100,000 and undivided profits and surplus of $206,000.

GREAT NEW ZEALAND GEYSER.

This One at Lake Echo Spouts Into the Air 300 Feet.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 19.—A new geyser has made its appearance at Lake Echo, Romtomahana, New Zealand. It is described as a mass of boiling water, half an acre in extent, rising in a great dome, from which a column of water and stones rises 300 feet, while immense volumes of steam rise to the clouds and hot stones are thrown a great distance.

BIG OPAL FOR KING EDWARD

Great Australian Gem to Add to His Crown.

HE IS NOT SUPERSTITIOUS

THE STONE IS SAID TO POSSESS MANY MIRACULOUS QUALITIES.

Interesting History of the Jewel Which Is Said to Be Jacob's Pillow and Is to Be Used at the Coronation.

LONDON, April 19.—Though the coronation of King Edward VII is not to take place till next year the papers are devoting already much space to the important event.

The proposed presentation to the King of a large Australian opal, to be placed in the crown, shows that in one point at least general superstition is giving way to common sense. For centuries the opal or "eye-stone" has been regarded as a most unlucky stone, bringing to its unfortunate possessor ill health, ill fortune and every other ill that flesh is heir to. In the present day in Russia an opal seen in a shop window says plainly: "You will do no good today, you might just as well go home at once." In most countries an opal is a gift for a mother-in-law.

But the gem was not always held in such superstitious abhorrence. The ancients regarded it as possessing the virtues of every gem whose hue appeared upon its prismatic surface. Moreover, it was invaluable for the sight, hence the name "eye-stone." The magicians of the middle ages maintained that this gem enabled one to fall from a height of several hundred feet (Swendivogius does not give the exact altitude) on to the jagged rocks below without hurting oneself, and the reason of this is, says a brilliant Judaeus Apella, "that the stone attracts to itself the whole force of the concussion."

Magis Power of the Opal.

The opal, among other things, was noted for its efficacy in stopping bleeding. Used in an impromptu tourniquet, the opal would no doubt do this as well as any other stone but to wear it around the neck to stop bleeding at the heel would be as scientific as to suppose that the insertion of a lovely opal in the King of England's crown would stop bleeding in South Africa.

The object connected with British monarchy which is beyond all price is not the crown, the scepter, or the Koh-i-noor, but the venerable piece of rock for which King Edward I had a comparatively modern stand made in the form of a chair. This is the second coronation stone, believed for many centuries to have been the pillow on which Jacob slept at Bethel. It first traveled to Egypt, then with a daughter and son-in-law of Pharaoh to Spain; it was next taken to Ireland, where it became a seat for Irish kings; then to Scotland, where for the first time it was encased in a chair of wood which became the throne of Scottish kings. Edward I fixed his heart upon this precious treasure, and securing it he had himself crowned king of the Scots seated thereon. Having had it conveyed to Westminster abbey, he gave orders for a fresh chair to be made to hold it, and that chair may be seen to this day. In this chair and on this stone every English sovereign from Edward I to Queen Victoria has been crowned.

Scots Worried by Loss of Stone.

Of course, the Scots were in sore dismay at the loss of such a priceless object, and they strove hard to recover it by treaty, but the English people regarded it with equal veneration and would not hear of its being restored. When James I of England was crowned upon it as King of Scots he had come to his own—in fulfillment of a prophecy once alleged to have been inscribed upon the stone, that where it went Scottish supremacy should follow.

Only once has the coronation chair with the stone been removed from the abbey. It was taken to Westminster Hall for Oliver Cromwell's benefit, when he was installed as lord protector. At the coronation of William and Mary, as they were joint sovereigns, a second chair of state had to be provided, and this has since been used by the Queen's consort. Nowadays these historical pieces of furniture are valued as they should be, and protected after a fashion, but they have been shamefully treated in time gone by on the pathy and neglect of men who should have better guarded the abbey and its contents from mischievous and irreverent visitors.

WEDDING MASS IN A CONVENT.

First Time for Such a Ceremony In This Country.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Miss May Matilda O'Ryan of Sillerly, Que., and Dr. Gustav A. Taschereau of St. Ferdinand, Nova Scotia, a nephew of the late Cardinal Taschereau, have just been married in the convent of the Ursuline Nuns at Bedford Park. Only the altar was decorated. Father Daniel Burke, chaplain of the convent and pastor of the church of St. Philip Neri of Bedford Park, performed the ceremony. At 10 o'clock the sisters of the convent, in black, walked in. The little girls of the convent school, dressed in white, came in after them and sat in the middle of the church, the sisters sitting on the sides.

The bride and bridegroom have started on a tour through Washington and the South. They will live in St. Ferdinand, where Dr. Taschereau has a practice. Miss O'Ryan has been living since last summer in the convent, on account of her sister, a nun, who came from South Africa to the Bedford Park convent to regain her health and special permission was secured from the ecclesiastical authorities of New York and Quebec. The occasion is said to have been the first time that a nuptial high mass has been celebrated within a convent in this country.

HOBSON RESUMES WORK.

He Will Investigate a Torpedo Boat Forfeiture.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Naval Constructor Hobson, who is now on special duty here, has been given his first assignment in connection with the torpedo boat Tingey, the contract on which has been declared forfeited. The contractors claim that they furnished a number of extras before the forfeiture occurred. The ship will now be towed from Baltimore to Norfolk, where Constructor Hobson and other members of a board will make an inquiry to learn how far these extras were warranted.

The navy department is considering a plan by which the torpedo boat destroyers, now building at Philadelphia, can undergo certain changes in construction by which one knot can be added to the speed originally contracted for, making them 29-knot boats. The chief constructor of the navy will be in Philadelphia today to determine whether the changes can be made.

The Only Line That Does It.

Attractive Women

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect, and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of features.

The snap and spirit which health gives to the eye, the movement, and the speech are full of magnetism.

Sickly women can't understand this.

They only know that they are miserable, and their efforts to be attractive are languid and weak.

Woman's influence in the world is limited by her strength, and the strength of health is real strength.

It brings with it beauty and grace and loveliness of disposition.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. If she would be all she may, she must guard well against the signs of ill health.

Regular and painless menstruation is absolutely necessary.

The help which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gives to women who are attacked by any disorder of the feminine organism is real, permanent help. It cures all weaknesses of the organs and makes it possible for women to retain their health and beauty to mature years.

Mrs. Bazley Tells of Relief from Suffering.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It gives me great pleasure and, at the same time, I feel it a duty to send you this testimonial in regard to your Vegetable Compound. It has worked wonders with me. I was a great sufferer with ulceration of the womb, had such backache and bearing-down pains that it required a great effort to do a small amount of my household duties. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am able to do all my own work and feel like a new woman. Your Sanative Wash also is something I could not afford to be without. I cannot say enough in behalf of your remedies. I heartily recommend them to all suffering women."—MRS. F. C. BAZLEY, 724 4th Ave., Detroit, Mich.

$5000 REWARD Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonial letters we are constantly publishing, we have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, Mass., $5,000, which will be paid to any person who will show that the above testimonial is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission.—LYDIA E. MISS SARTORIS IS TO WED.

Granddaughter of Gen. Grant Engaged to an English Barrister.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The engagement of Miss Vivian Sartoris, granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant, to Archibald Balfour, a barrister of London, was announced here today. Miss Sartoris is now in London.

Archibald Balfour is a distant relative of Arthur Balfour, the English statesman.

Miss Sartoris is the elder daughter of Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris. Her mother divorced her father and returned to the United States several years ago.

Miss Vivian Sartoris is 22 years old. Her face has appeared on the canvases of Sir Frederick Leighton, now dead. She is a tall, graceful brunette, bearing little resemblance to the Grant family. She has had many admirers in London society, and it was generally understood that one of Britain's young men would win the prize.

WORLD'S FAIR PAYMENTS.

The sluggish response to the call for the 10 per cent installment of World's Fair subscriptions does not speak well for those who are delaying the incorporation.

There is now about $400,000 in sight, leaving a balance of $100,000 still to be collected.

Subscribers, of course, expect to pay. It is as easy to pay today as tomorrow. Why then put off till tomorrow what can be and ought to be done today?

The government commissioners will be here next Tuesday. Are we to confess to them that we are not ready to begin?

There is not even galvanized enthusiasm in such support. At a time when all should unite in earnest work for a common purpose it is not encouraging to find so many neglecting their plain duty.

It's up to Mr. Parker to put up or shut up.

A DOMESTIC EXPERIMENT.

A sort of trust has been organized in Manchester, England, to control the supply and distribution of domestic service.

It is called the Ladies' Domestic Association. Training in cooking and domestic science is provided in schools of the association and servants are encouraged to stay in their places by bonuses for length of service.

Connected with this is the Manchester Distributive Kitchen with a capital of £3000. This company cooks meals and delivers them hot to members of the association.

The experience of the trust is encouraging and has reduced housekeeping to order in many homes.

There have been many failures of experiments along these lines. But in the nature of things there seems no reason why it should not succeed. It certainly would prove a boon to housekeepers if it could be made to work.

Mr. McKinley will spend the greater part of the summer in Ohio, perhaps the better to observe the movements of Mayor Tom Johnson and Mayor Jones.

"I AM A CITIZEN OF ST. LOUIS."

The Mayor's order against street obstructions in pursuance of the suggestion of the Post-Dispatch, is the first step in the renovation of St. Louis.

Every citizen should co-operate in this work, designed to raise the city from its present low estate and establish it upon a firm and enduring foundation of vigor, good order and comeliness.

A general awakening is observed among all sorts and conditions of citizens. All are alive to the great need of making St. Louis worthy in all respects of a place among the healthiest, most energetic, most beautiful cities in the world.

This is not a private individual work. It is municipal and public. It concerns not one or some, but all. It concerns all—not as isolated units—each bent upon selfish ends, but all as elements of a community.

There is no greater or purer pride than the pride of membership in a worthy community. Citizenship in such a city is the highest honor.

St. Louis must make good her claim of rank as a World's Fair city. This means that nothing be omitted that will contribute to the material, intellectual and moral prestige of the community.

The proudest boast of the Roman was that he was a citizen of Rome. Let the boast of citizenship of St. Louis be equally proud and equally justified by the fact of worth.

The thriving colony of Tennesseans in St. Louis hope that the Legislature of their native State will provide amply for an exhibition of Tennessee products at the World's Fair. Gov. McMillin urges that this shall be done. The great resources of the Volunteer State should be made fully known to the world in 1903.

OIL OR COAL.

The importance of the Texas oil discoveries is only just beginning to be appreciated by the general public.

A revolution in fuel cost seems to be in prospect. The oil can be piped to tide water at a selling cost of 10 cents a barrel, and since three and a half barrels of oil are equal as fuel to a ton of coal it follows that consumers will get a value equivalent to coal at 35 cents a ton.

It is even claimed that this fuel oil can be transported to Pittsburg and there sold for less than coal.

If these and the California fields prove to be permanent oil is the fuel of the future for manufacturing and domestic purposes.

The importance of this is apparent when we consider the part coal plays in modern industry. No event of greater magnitude has taken place since the invention of the steam engine.

The Governor has vetoed the bill appropriating $40,000 for the support of the insane sent from the State to the St. Louis asylum, saying that the insane outside of the city should be sent to some one of the State institutions. This should prevent the sending of any more insane patients to St. Louis and should remove all the outsiders who may now be in the asylum here.

GEN. WHEELER TO BOWERY BOYS.

In his talk to the Bowery boys in New York, Gen. Joe Wheeler gave some characteristic advice, and, on the whole, it was valuable. He held up as examples Organizer Morgan and General Manager Schwab, and told each boy to set out to make his fortune, with the highest possible position for his mark.

It is just as well for all boys, of the Bowery or elsewhere, to be inspired with the enthusiasm which such a goal holds out. But is it not necessary, also, to add a word of advice that may temper the inevitable disappointment that will be met with by at least ninety men out of every hundred, because of the lack of talent and of "room at the top."

If we were all Morgans or Schwabs, the world's daily work must be done, and it is done chiefly by the rank and file. For every general manager there must be thousands of ordinary workers, and even the [illegible]man's job is only sufficient for the foreman. He must die [illegible]e removed before Tom, Dick and Harry can compete for [illegible].

The Bowery boys a[illegible]here should bear in mind that the man who does his best in the rank and file is as necessary and honorable a worker and member of society as the "captain of industry." And when such a man finds his limitations and the limiting conditions of life put an end to his iridescent dream of "room at the top," he should be content, and set himself the task possible to every man, of leading a noble and useful life in the best position he can attain.

The logic of Mr. Wells' letter to Mr. Parker, his Republican opponent in the recent campaign, is sound. Mr. Parker charged publicly that he was defeated by brute force and fraud, but declined to make a contest for the office. He thus attempted to brand the election of Mr. Wells as fraudulent without taking the one step necessary to prove the truth of his charge. The only course left to Mr. Wells was to challenge the statement and demand proof or vindication. If Mr. Parker believes his charge it is his duty to contest the election. If he does not believe it he ought not to have made the charge and he ought now to retract the charge and give Mr. Wells the benefit of a clear title and St. Louis the benefit of the reputation of having had an honest election. Mr. Wells proposes that each put up $10,000. If the ballots show that Mr. Parker was elected all of the costs of the contest will be paid by Mr. Wells. On the other hand, if the election of Mr. Wells should be proven, Mr. Wells offers to pay his own costs, but Mr. Parker's $10,000 will be turned over to a public charity. The issue is made up. It is an issue in which the whole city of St. Louis is interested.

THE GARBAGE OPPORTUNITY.

Secretary Blakely of the Sanitary Reduction company says that the profit in the business of reducing the garbage is "a trade matter which does not concern the public."

In view of the clause providing that the city may purchase the plant at a price agreed upon by appraisers and of the amount of money paid by the city for the reduction of the garbage the public has a deep interest in the profit of garbage reduction. Citizens have a right to know all about the plant, its operation and profit.

Mr. Blakely says that the corporation has declared no dividend, but admits that a large amount of the earnings of the plant has been expended in improvements and that a profit could be made in the business. Well-informed men estimate that the actual profits of the business are large.

It may safely be assumed that the garbage reduction plant is in condition to make good profits and that the profits will increase steadily.

If the business of garbage reduction is profitable in itself the city ought not to pay anything for the reduction of its garbage. On the contrary, the city ought to enjoy the profit in the reduction of its garbage. The city needs all the money it can raise.

The question of securing a more advantageous arrangement under a new contract, or by acquiring and operating the plant is a practical business question. It offers an excellent test of the business capacity of a business administration. The expiration of the contract with the clause providing for its purchase offers a good opportunity to make another practicable advance in municipal ownership. The task of finding ways and means is in the hands of the new administration.

Railroader Hill has cleared $4,000,000 in Wall street by buying railroad stock which rose because it was supposed that he was purchasing to bring about a great consolidation. A railroad magnate has great opportunities to make money outside of his office.

The box which street railway conductors are to carry for the reception of fares is suspended by a strap. We shall thus have strap conductors as well as strap passengers. Clifford said:

"Papa is the worm, is he not?"

And this although I had taken the precaution to send my husband from the room before entering upon this subject.

But I would not let Clifford see that I was pained. Accordingly I brushed the scalding tears from my eyes before I took his hand in mine and pointed out that the brightest little boys no longer cracked this joke.—Detroit Journal.

A SONG ON THE WAY.

Hope, like a star in the night,
Leading us on to the light.
What of the way,
If it lead to the day—
To the morning eternally bright?

Ever that morning draws nigh—
Ever the song for the high;
Sorrow is drifting—
The black clouds are rifting,
And over us all the broad sky.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

To educate reason without educating desire is like selling a repeating rifle to a savage.

HERBERT SPENCER.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Some men are fortunate; others are only lucky.

A woman may have some sense and not have any sense of humor, but no woman can have a sense of humor and not have some sense.

Probably women invented skirts so they could make their feet look smaller by having the heels of their shoes put way up under their insteps.

There was probably a lot of scandal before the flood because the women could trace Noah's family back to Eve and nobody knew who Eve's father was.

There are three habits that no amount of treatment will ever cure a woman of when she once gets them: The garret habit, the twin habit and the bare-neck photograph habit.

IMPORT OF HUMAN SKELETONS.

Human skeletons valued at $1,202.21 were imported into this country from Australia in a single quarter last year.

A PLAUSIBLE THEORY.

Smith: Do you believe that dogs are sometimes used in making sausages?

Brown: No, but I suspect they are an important ingredient in hash.

Smith: Why do you think that?

Brown: Because when people are fed on it a few days they begin to growl.—Chicago News.

QUITE INNOCENT.

"Now, boys," said the Sunday school teacher, "surely some one of you can tell me who carried off the gates of Gaza. Speak up, William."

"I never touched 'em!" said the indignant William, with a suspicion of tears in his youthful voice. "I don't see why folks always think when things get carried off that I've had something to do with it!"

EXPENSIVE.

"The work of legislating for this nation, and for all the states of this great union, is very expensive," said Mrs. Darley.

"Yes, the frames must come high," added Mrs. Darley.

"The frames?"

"Yes; every bill is framed, as you will see by the newspaper reports."—Detroit Free Press.

SANGUINARY.

Tourist: And when did you spill your first blood?

Amber Pete: When I tried to shave with one of them blamed safety razors!

POST DISPATCH SERIES — FAMOUS SHORT STORIES

THERE WAS A FOOL

BY OPIE READ.

"YOU'RE a fine-lookin' specimen to be axin' fur a wife, ain't you? Hah, ain't you? W'y, dog my ugly cats, ef it don't seem that the less account a young feller is these days the more he's on the lookout for a wife."

Old Nat Banks lived on Big Terrapin Creek. Had he been as much noted for industry as he was noted on account of a disposition to dodge active work, he would have taken a position in the front rank of Terrapin Creek agriculture, but, as it was, he occupied the unenvied position of crop thermometer—that is, when he had a fair crop, it was generally believed that all of the other crops in the neighborhood were of unusual excellence. Old Nat was a widower. It was once cruelly hinted at Webster's watermill that Mrs. Banks had been starved to death, but the inhumanity of this reproach will be recognized when I solemnly affirm that the old lady, on the day before she was stricken with her fatal illness, was seen fondly hovering over a large stewpan full of cold potatoes and wild mustard. Old Banks' daughter, a girl of 17, would have been the belle of the community had her father's farm been in better condition. In opposition to the advice of people more intelligent than himself, he had burdened the girl with the name of Anthracite. He had heard the word, in a vague sort of way, and was much struck with it, declaring that a girl with such a name could not help marrying a lawyer or a circuit rider with a good nag and a new saddle. Bill-Dick Belsher, a sort of "harum-scarum" young fellow of the neighborhood, had fallen in love with Anthracite, and had asked her to marry him, which, as there was nothing better in sight, she had consented to do. Bill-Dick, dressed in a suit of corduroy—which, indeed, was the wardrobial wonder of nearly every young man in the community—had called at the house and asked for the girl, when the old man denounced him, as above set forth.

"Oh," the old man continued, "I know all about your clothes, but you don't know nothin' about law, an', besides that, whar's your nag an' new saddle? Anthracite kain't afford to throw herself away on a common man, 'specially one that ain't no more account than you air, Bill-Dick Belsher."

"You are a fine man," Bill-Dick replied, "to be talkin' 'bout a pusson bein' no account. W'y, cadfound your ugly pictur', Nat Banks, you are too lazy to bresh a hoss fly often your nose in August, an' you ain't more'n got sense enough to grunt when a pain strikes you. Mout live 200 years, Nat Banks, an' you couldn't have a suit of clothes like these here."

"You wouldn't have 'em ef you hadn't found 'em summers," the old man replied; "but that ain't nuther here nur thar; you ain't goin' to marry Anthry, an' that clinches it."

"S'pose we run away?"

"S'pose I foller you?"

"S'pose you kain't ketch us?"

"S'pose lead ken?"

The reference to lead had its effect. "Come, old man," said Bill-Dick. "don't come talkin' about shootin' a feller."

"Ain't said a word about shootin'."

"No, but cadfound you 'ugly pictur'," that's whut you meant. You must recolleck you ain't got more'n enough sense than to shoot these clothes full of holes."

"Wall, then, go on away, an' find a man that won't shoot, an' marry his gal. That's about the safest way for you to do."

"'Never mind, old man; I'll git even with you."

"Yes, the turkey gobbler got even with the mus'rat."

"An', said Bill-Dick, "mebbe the coon didn't get even with the crawfish."

"He mout a done it," replied the old man, "but he got his skin powerful wet."

"That's all right, but he eat the crawfish. Well, I must go, but I'll see you again."

Several weeks later, during an overflow, Bill-Duck hurriedly sought the old man and excitedly exclaimed:

"Say, Mr. Banks, I don't kere how much I've got again a man, I kain't b'ar to see his dumb brutes suffer. Three of the best hogs you've got air out on an islan' in the creek, an' ef you don't go airter 'em the water'll sweep 'em off in another ha'f hour."

"My stairs, you don't say so, Bill-Dick!"

"Didn't you hear me say so? Ef you didn't I'll say it again."

"Of cou'se I hearn you, but what am I to do?"

"Go airter 'em."

"How?"

"I've got a boat down yander."

"Will you let me take it."

"I'll go out with you."

While they were rowing toward the island Bill-Dick said: "Old man, you mout let me have Anthry, airter I have dun been so 'commerdatin'?"

"Bill-Dick, whar's your nag an' new saddle? Whar's your law books? Bein' 'commerdatin' is one thing, an' givin' up a gal is another."

"Hop out," said Bill-Dick, when the boat touched the island. The old man jumped out, and Bill-Dick, shoving off into deep water, caught hold of a sapling to hold the boat steady, and said:

"How do you feel, old man?"

"All right. Say, row her in, an' let's git the hogs. Come on, for the water is risin' powerful fast."

"What hogs?"

"W'y, dog my cats, my hogs—the ones you said was out here."

"Old man, you ain't got no hogs out here. I was jest a jokin' with you."

"That ain't no way to joke, Billie. Come up an', let me git back into the boat."

"No, I reckon you'll have to swim out."

"W'y, man, I kain't swim a lick."

"Then I reckon it'll far' bad with you. Good-by."

"For ther Law's sake, hold on, Billy."

"Would, but you see I ain't got time. Got to go an' marry a gal that'll soon be a orfun."

"Wush I had my gun," said the old man.

"Stay here till I fetch it."

"Blaze away."

"Never mind. I'll git you yit, Bill-Dick."

"Not in this here world. Say, do you observe how peart the water is risin'?"

"Oh, Lawd!" supplicated the old man, "whut am I to do?"

"Ride out on your nag and new saddle," replied Bill-Dick.

"You blame lunatic, don't you see I ain't got none."

"Then float out on you law books."

"Come, now Billie, would you see your ole friend—a friend that's nussed you when you was a little boy—drowned this way?"

"No, Uncle Nat."

"Thar, now, I didn't think you would, Billie."

"I couldn't stand to see you drowned, so I'll go away so I kain't see it."

"Oh, you wretch!" the old man howled, "you oughter be dead."

"You will be putty soon."

"W'y, you pore fool, don't you know that Anthry wouldn't marry a man that has drownded her pore, hard-workin' father?"

"I'll tell her that you fell in the water."

"She won't believe you."

"Yes, she will, fur I've dun told her that I wouldn't be s'prised if you didn't fall in."

"Oh, you unfeelin' wretch."

"Yes, that's whut the circuit rider said."

"You ain't got no more soul than a buffalo gnat, Bill-Dick."

"That's what the lawyer said."

"Hold on thar, now!" Bill-Dick had begun to row away. "Say, Billie."

"Wall."

"Tell you whut I'll do."

"Nominate your pizen."

"You know that I have had my eye on your sister Tildy for some time."

"Which eye?"

"Blame it, both of 'em."

"Wall, whut ef you have?"

"W'y jist this: Ef you'll git her to marry me, I'll give you Anthry."

Bill-Dick hesitated a moment and then replied:

"All right."

"Shore pop?" asked the old man.

"Shore pop," Bill-Dick replied.

EASY LESSONS IN SPANISH

Easy Lessons in Spanish.

LESSON I.

Readers who have followed the French lessons will find their knowledge of French useful in the study of Spanish. The Spanish language is easier to acquire than the French, because it is simpler, especially the pronunciation.

As a rule, every syllable is sounded in Spanish, and there are no silent final vowels. The idioms are simpler, and the numerous and rounded vocal sounds give the language a wonderful beauty. Not only for the World's Fair, but for use in business and communication with our Spanish-American neighbors, this tongue is well worth studying.

Introductory Phrases.

Habla V. Castellano?
(Ahbla oosty Castelyano?)
Do you speak Spanish?

Un poco.
(Oon poco.)
A little.

Note—Habla V. Castellano is an idiom. Literally it is Speaks his worship Castilian? V. is a contraction for vuestra merced, his worship. As you know, Spaniards are excessively polite, and everybody is "his worship" in conversing. Vestra merced, pronounced in its contracted form "oosty," is the equivalent of our "you," but takes the verb in third person.

In the plural the V. is doubled, thus V. V., and is pronounced oostedais.

Buenos dias, caballero?
(Booainos deeahs, cabalyairo?)
Good morning, sir.

Caballero is derived from caballo (cabalyo), a horse, as by courtesy, every gentleman is supposed to be a horseman.

We may also say:
Buenos dias, senor.
(Booainos deeahs, sainyor.)
Good day, sir.

Senor is equivalent to our Mr. Senora (Sainyora), Mrs., and Senorita (Sainyoreeta), Miss.

Caballero, es V. Espanol?
(Cabalyairo ais oosty Espanyol.)
Are you a Spaniard, sir?

Si senor, para servir a V.
(See sainyor, para sairveer ah oosty.)
Yes, sir, I am.

Note.—Para servir a V. is an idiom, meaning first to serve his worship, or at your service, used for politeness' sake.

Students of French will notice at once that servir is the infinitive mode. Spanish has but three regular verbs, the infinitives of which end in ar, er and ir. As amar, to love; temer, to fear; servir, to serve. The French language has four, besides more irregular verbs.

It may be well to conclude this lesson by an example of the conjugation of the present tense, indicative mode of each of these regular verbs.

Amar, to love.

Amo, I love; amas, you love; ama, he loves; amamos, we love; amais, you love; aman, they love.

Temer, to fear.

Temo, I fear; temes, you fear; teme, he fears; tememos, we fear; temeis, you fear; temen, they fear.

Servir, to serve.

Servo, I serve; serves, you serve; serve, he serves; servimos, we serve; servies, you serve; serven, they serve.

Do not forget that each syllable is sounded. Thus amais is ah-mah-is; temes is tay-mays; temeis is tay-may-is; serves is sair-vays; serve (he serves) is sair-vay.

A PHRASE'S ORIGIN.

Noah (as they disembark)—Well, I guess we're the only people on the beach.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

(This column is open to everybody who has a complaint to make, a grievance to ventilate, information to give or a subject of general interest to discuss, or a public service to acknowledge, and who can put the idea into less than 100 words. Letters from persons seeking employment cannot be given place in this column.)

Working Women's Home.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I heartily agree with the "working woman," whose letter in the Sunday Post-Dispatch on the need of a home for working girls in St. Louis touched an answering chord. It is a pity that a city the size and wealth of St. Louis has no place outside the stuffy boarding house where the working girl and the girl who comes here a stranger from the country can find a real home. Of all others they need such a place, where, in the absence of their own homes, they can secure the comforts, Christian companionship and rest they need, with the proper amount of restraint.

Why cannot some of the wealthy men and women who have more than they need contribute some of their money for this deserving object? It could not be put to better use. Every large city in the country and many of the smaller ones have real homes for working girls, and why cannot St. Louis have the same? A WORKINGMAN.

A Downtown Park Needed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While the discussion is going on about the Exposition building site being taken for a public library and the people's minds are being trained in the interests of the public's good, I would like to suggest the advisability of giving the people a downtown park in place of the two that were used for the Exposition and City Hall.

These downtown breathing places for the poor who are crowded in tenements are essentially necessary and with proper police regulations could be made a great blessing to crowded humanity. There are acres of property along the levee up to Main street that could be condemned for park purposes and made into a park or parks with a river front. Nothing would beautify the eastern portion of our city more or give more pleasure to a vast number of people.

V. O. SAUNDERS.

For More High Schools.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The small number of pupils attending the St. Louis High School as compared with the number in Kansas City and other places can easily be accounted for by the fact that this city possesses but one such institution.

Few citizens living in the northern or southern parts of the city can afford to pay 10 cents car fare for one or more children to attend the high school. Only the children of the well-to-do can get the so-called higher education in this city.

Chicago has 15 or more such schools, yet her population is not more than double that of St. Louis. It is a shame, and indeed it is time for our people to turn their attention to the accomplishment of this reform.

St. Louis. TAXPAYER.

In Defense of Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Replying to "A Man" I would say that as woman is the preserver of the species, and as he admits to having proceeded from an "animated lie," he should not expect to see his subject in the all pervading light of truth.

His remarks, to begin with, are contradictory. First, he says that "in her teens she lies with seraphic sweetness," then goes on to say that "at 20 she has forgotten the delicacy and timidity of youth."

I come in contact with at least a hundred girls a day. Gentle, sweet girls, varying in age from 5 to 18. These girls, with the proper environment, will develop into noble, honest women. I have no reason to believe that the hundreds of girls other people meet are different from the ones I know.

The woman I believe in is a flower that blooms on a cliff, so high up in the air of goodness that "A Man" would not attempt to scale it by first looking for faults in himself.

After "A Man" wrote this profound article on the "Degeneracy of the Female" I am sure his brain must have been tired and he ought to have blown out the gas and gone to bed. MARIE ESPERANCE.

Wage Cutting and Marriage.

To Alice B.

Let me advise Miss Alice B. and friends of hers that are accustomed to accept positions at reduced rates, that if this tendency is not curbed and they keep on cutting salaries in all the positions where their labor can fairly compete with male labor that marriage, which every healthy minded young person ought to look forward to with pleasure, will become as dead an institution among thoughtful persons of moderate means as is the practice of Grecian mythology among the Greeks of today.

In my opinion Miss Alice B. has made an error, and she should rectify it by demanding that the same salary be paid to her which a young man would and has received for filling the place.

If Aguinaldo Had Done as Funston Did.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Notwithstanding the explanation by the eminent lawyers and military men of the legality and bravery of Funston's brilliant capture, there are still croakers. If Aguinaldo had succeeded in getting American soldiers to turn traitors and had captured Funston there would have been no cry here of "Filipino treachery," "diabolical trickery," etc. Certainly not. On the contrary, Aguinaldo would have been lauded to the skies as a paragon of bravery, military genius, etc., especially by the Kansas people, who in their admiration of the Filipino hero would doubtless be in favor of withdrawing our troops and granting him all he demands. Yet there are still unreasonable people who say "it all depends upon whose ox was gored."

SPRING CLEANING.

Now doth the busy wife
Get busy with herself
And take down all the things
That load the kitchen shelf;
And in the dining room
And in the parlor, too,
She rips up everything
That dawns upon her view.

The carpets she must beat;
The floors she all must scrub
And clean the furniture
And dally with the tub.
A varnish brush she gets
To smooth the sideboard's taint,
And for the kitchen steps
She buys a can of paint.

Ah, me! When lovely woman
The dust of spring's pursuing,
With eagerness intense,
There's always something doing:
She cannot rest or sleep,
From dawn till set of sun,
However tired she be,
Until her task is done

EAST SIDE GETS SMELTING PLANT

Works Costing $500,000 Are to Be Established.

ST. LOUIS MEN INTERESTED

NEWS CONFIRMED BY MAYOR STEPHENS OF EAST ST. LOUIS.

Negotiations Are Also Pending for the Erection of a Cotton Goods Factory to Employ 1000 or 1500 Men.

East St. Louis gets a smelting plant. It is to be erected by a syndicate with a capital stock of $500,000. St. Louis and New York capitalists are said to be interested in the enterprise.

The object is to smelt lead from the Joplin and Webb City (Mo.) and Arkansas mining districts. The projectors claim that they can ship the ore to East St. Louis more cheaply than they can buy and transport fuel to their present plant.

The shipping facilities of East St. Louis offer an additional inducement to the enterprise.

Mayor M. M. Stephens told the Post-Dispatch Friday that the matter had been under consideration for several months. He said that representatives of the syndicate had been in the city looking at available sites and learning prices of real estate. He had not been apprised of the purchase of a location.

It is understood that work on the new buildings will be started this summer and finished before fall.

Mayor Stephens said that negotiations were also pending for a cotton goods factory, a plant that would give employment to 1000 or 1500 operatives. St. Louis capital is behind the enterprise. The plant will create fabrics from raw cotton.

"I have no doubt of its coming," said the mayor. "In fact, I had expected that the buildings would be well under way by this time. The promoters have three such factories and it is their intention to combine them into one of increased magnitude at East St. Louis. It will be a great institution for our town, because it will give employment to local labor."

World's Fair Site Discussed.

A meeting of the Forest Park World's Fair Free Site Association was held Thursday night at the Louisiana building, Vandeventer avenue and Morgan street. Speeches in favor of locating the World's Fair in Forest Park were made by E. J. Spencer, T. D. Canon, Minor Meriwether and others.

DOG WAS WORSE THAN ROBBERS

John Keuhn Was Severaly Bitten While Fleeing From Two Threatening Highwaymen.

John Kuehn, 27 years old, a cooper, of 313 Broadway, East St. Louis, was attacked by two highwaymen at the foot of Poplar street, in St. Louis, Thursday night, and in escaping from them through a private yard was severely bitten by a bulldog.

About midnight Kuehn was returning to East St. Louis. At the intersection of First and Poplar streets he was accosted by two men, who asked him for matches. He said he did not have any.

"Let's stop him and throw him in the river," suggested one. The other produced a leather band and they tried to buckle it about him.

"This is all unnecessary, men," said Kuehn. "Search me and take what I have."

The highwaymen went through his pockets, finding only a few pennies. They believed he had other money. With pocketknives they ripped open his trousers, cut the lining out of his vest and coat.

One of them said after failing to find anything, that a poor man like Kuehn had no right to live. While the other reached for a club Kuehn extricated himself from their grasp and started on a run through alleys and back yards.

A bulldog fastened its teeth in his hand and tore and lacerated it. Kuehn continued his flight across the Eads bridge and to his home.

MRS. SCHWARZ CHASED TRAMP

Pursued Him Five Blocks After He Had Frightened Her Small Children.

Mrs. Mary Schwarz of 1232 Gaty avenue, East St. Louis, with an iron poker in her hand, pursued a tramp five blocks in that city Thursday afternoon.

The man had visited her home and frightened her two little girls into hysterics.

Mrs. Schwarz appeared upon the scene just as he was making a peremptory demand upon the children for something to eat. Grabbing an iron poker, five feet in length, she started in pursuit of the tramp, who jumped over the fence and ran rapidly down Collinsville avenue.

A crowd of excited men, women and children joined in the chase. Mrs. Schwarz followed the man as far as she could until she was exhausted.

In ten minutes the tramp returned to her home. He refused to leave until he had been supplied with food. Joseph Greener, night engineer at Heim's brewery, passed and Mrs. Schwarz signaled to him to call the police.

"The police are not necessary in this case," said Greener. While Greener trounced the tramp until he screamed with pain, Mrs. Schwarz applied the poker with telling effect. He was finally permitted to go.

EXPLOSION WAS AVERTED.

Quick Work in East St. Louis Saved Much Property.

A tank containing 100 gallons of kerosene was burning when the department was called to the fire at Gains Brothers' grocery store, 461 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, Wednesday night.

Chief Frank Bolte was among the first on the scene. The flats above were occupied and the street crowded with people. A delay of two minutes meant an explosion that might have killed a score of persons and wrecked a block. Chief Bolte passed the word quietly to the men of all his companies to direct their nozzles toward the tank. Peering spectators wondered why the firemen fought a little blaze at the rear of the store room rather than the leaping tongues of flame in front.

It was a trying ordeal for the firemen and once it appeared that the very seams in the tank had spread under the intense heat and the oil run out to add fury to the flames. Chief Bolte stood with his men and directed every movement until the crisis was over. When the last spark was drowned the tank was rolled into an alley and the firemen turned their attention to the building.

Secured Judgment for $4000.

Mary Reno secured a judgment for $4000 against the St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co. in Judge Fisher's court Thursday afternoon. She asked $20,000 damages, averring that she had been run down by a Suburban car, and as a result of her injuries had lost a limb. The plaintiff is an aged woman.

The Changeling Child.

The Scientific Explanation of the Change Formerly Attributed to the Fairies.

In folk lore stories there is frequent mention of changelings—children who were changed by fairy influence. Some loving wife and proud husband found their child weak of body, and sometimes weak of mind. It grew up to be fretful, sullen and perhaps spiteful. It seemed impossible that love could bring such a child into the world. So the child was called a fairy changeling, a child substituted by the fairies for one whom in their envy for its loveliness they had carried away.

We hear no more of fairy stories. Stern science says that healthy and lovely children must have healthy parents, and that when the mother in her days of waiting and anticipation is nervous, anxious, sleepless and generally miserable, her child will be weak and fretful.

How reasonable this is. The child can have no strength which the mother does not give it, and how can the weak mother, who has not enough strength for herself have anything to spare for her babe?

THE FAIRY GOD-MOTHER

is a very pretty invention. But the real fairy god-mother is the natural mother of the child. It is she who must endow her child with health from which springs all other endowments desirable for humanity.

The way to have healthy children is to be healthy. But how to be healthy is the vexing question for women. Is the mother to blame because she is nervous, because her appetite fails and her strength wanes, because she is sleepless and despondent? One cannot blame the woman whose only failing is that she does not know how to change her condition. Yet a woman's health is practically in her own control. If she is weak she can be made strong. If she is sick she can be made well. The experience of other women shows that the rose of motherhood can be stripped of its thorns by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"When I wrote to you in March, asking advice as to what to do for myself," says Mrs. Ella Reynolds, of Guffie, McLean Co., Ky. "I was expecting the baby's coming in June, and was sick all of the time. Had been sick for several months. Could not get anything to stay on my stomach, not even water. Had mishaps twice in six months, and threatening all the time now. Had female weakness for several years. My hips, back and lower bowels hurt me all the time. Had numbness from my hips down. Had several hard cramping spells, and was not able to do any work at all. I received your answer in a few days, telling me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I took three bottles, and before I had taken it a week I was better, and before I had taken it a month I was able to help do my work. On the 27th of May my baby came, and I was only sick three hours, and had an easy time. The doctor said I got along nicely.

"We praise Dr. Pierce's medicine for it has cured me. I am better now than I have been for thirteen years. I hope all how are afflicted will do as I have done and be cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a perfect medicine for women. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and cures female weakness. It is the best preparative for maternity, strengthening the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength to give her child and make the baby's advent practically painless.

THE TEST OF WOMAN'S HEALTH

is strength. A well woman will be a strong woman. She will not be "just dragging around" with throbbing head, aching back and constant weariness. No woman can be strong who is troubled by disease of the delicate female organism. The proof of the curative power of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription may be all summed up in the phrase "It makes weak women strong, sick women well."

"During my two years of married life I have not had good health," writes Mrs. Daisy Studdard, of 608 So. Esplanade Ave., Leavenworth, Kans. "I was all run-down, and my husband got me to write to Dr. Pierce and explain my case to him and see if he could do me any good. So I wrote, and, thank the Lord, I got an early reply, telling me what the trouble was. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and now can say that I feel like a new woman, and can say also that we have a big baby four months old. When the baby came it was just wonderful how I got along and now I do all my work and do not feel tired out like I used to. I have taken eight bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription.' It makes one feel well and strong."

Women who are troubled with chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All letters are privately read and privately answered, and womanly confidences are guarded by the same strict professional privacy observed in personal consultations. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

When a dealer tempted by the little more profit paid by less meritorious preparations offers a substitute as "just as good" as "Favorite Prescription" remember that "just as good" for him means his profit and your loss.

A WOMAN IS AT HER WITS' END

sometimes to find a cure for familiar ills. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is full of helpful hints and information for women.

"I got the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser for 31 one-cent stamps," writes M. M. Wardwell, Esq., of Linwood, Leavenworth Co., Kans. "Would't take five dollars for it if we couldn't get another. Gave receipt for 'nursing sore mouth' to two women that the doctor was not able to benefit, and they were cured."

This great medical work, containing 1008 large pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper-covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BODY OF GIRL SUICIDE NOT YET RECOVERED

Relatives searching for the body of Annie Moehlenhoff, who jumped from a bridge into the River Des Peres, Thursday.
—Photographed by the Post-Dispatch.

The body of pretty Annie Moehlenhoff, who found death in the River des Peres Thursday, has not been recovered.

Henry Moehlenhoff, her father, who has searched the river continuously since his daughter leaped from the Morganford bridge, offers a reward of $25 for the recovery of the body.

At first he hoped to recover the remains near the spot where the girl was drowned. Now he fears that the swollen waters have carried the body to the Mississippi, two miles away.

The young woman, while delirious with fever, jumped from the Morganford bridge within sight of her home about 9 o'clock Thursday.

The drop from the bridge to the water was about 40 feet. Ordinarily, the River des Peres is only a dozen feet wide and but knee deep under the bridge. Thursday, swollen by the night's rain, it had widened 20 and was 10 feet deep. The water, confined by the narrow banks, sped with millrace velocity.

Henry Moehlenhoff and his three sons, Henry, Fred and George, commenced to drag the river a half hour after George Moehlenhoff, a cousin of the girl, saw her jump.

All day the old man and the boys worked with grappling irons fastened to ropes. Neighbors came to their aid and probed the river with long poles. Louis Boettling and George Obelmann secured a skiff.

Standing in the boat they explored every inch of the river for 300 yards below the bridge. A rope that moored the skiff to the bank was played out, inch by inch, so that the boat could move slow enough to allow the men to poke under rocks and logs.

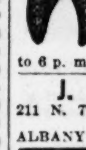

Armed with a grappling hook, made by twisting pitchfork tines at right angles, the father stood hour by hour on the bank hurling the grapple into the water and slowly drawing it back. It was grim fishing, and apparently a cruel way of searching for the dead, yet it was the only recourse.

The neighbors standing on the bank could only express their sorrow for old Henry Moehlenhoff, who stood all day patiently dragging the muddy stream.

POST-DISPATCH BALL GAMES OPEN SATURDAY WITH 46 TEAMS OF PAROCHIAL AND PUBLIC SCHOOL LEAGUES

All Arrangements Are Made and the League Season Will Be Inaugurated With 30 Public School and 16 Parochial School Teams in Line for the Championship.

EACH WINNING PLAYER WILL RECEIVE A POST-DISPATCH MEDAL.

In Twenty-Three Different Portions of St. Louis the Merry Baseball War of Juvenile Players for the Post-Dispatch Trophies Will Be Waged by the Two Leagues, Commencing Saturday Morning.

POST-DISPATCH MEDALS FOR THE CHAMPIONS.

At the close of the Post-Dispatch Public School and Parochial School Baseball League season, which will open Saturday morning and continue ten weeks, the Post-Dispatch will decorate with a medal each member of the winning team. These medals, collectively, will constitute the Post-Dispatch trophy for the season. Each medal will be appropriately engraved, bearing the name of the recipient and the circumstances under which this token of his ability as an amateur baseball player was received.

After three weeks of preparation for the event, the baseball season of the Post-Dispatch Public School and Parochial School Leagues will open Saturday morning, when 23 games in both organiaztions will be played in various sections of the city.

Eight contests will be played by Parochial League teams and 15 by Public School League.

The names of the competing teams are given herewith, and complete results of the contests will be published.

St. Louis is deeply interested in the progress of the teams in the two leagues and in their contests for the trophies which will be the reward of the winner in each league at the close of the season. It is not alone the pupils of the institutions represented who are keeping a sharp outlook on the work of the respective teams, but outside schools, which have felt too weak to enter nines, are "rooting" and "pulling" for favorites, even before the season has begun.

With the eyes of half a hundred thousand of school children upon them, to say nothing of teachers, brothers, sisters and parents, the team members are putting in preliminary practice work every fine day, in order to make the best showing possible. Thursday and Friday afternoons almost every ground in the city had a squad of Post-Dispatch League players warming up on impromptu diamonds constructed there, and, in most cases, the boys were wise enough to have an older person on hand to advise and coach them and instruct them in some of the fine points of the rules.

One team which was watched by the Post-Dispatch, but which shall be nameless for the present, in practicing Thursday afternoon displayed a knowledge of the game which promises well for the quality of baseball that will be played by the public school lads. Not a boy on the nine wore long trousers, but a pretty double play was executed and a base stealer was caught at second on a lovely throw by the catcher.

It is not the size of the boy that makes the player, but his nerve, watchfulness and skill. Just because you are small, don't think you are out of the race. Turn out and practice and do your best and something besides defeat will result. And even if you are defeated, no bones are broken. Someone must lose. Next time it may be the other fellows.

In regard to the games Saturday, it will be well if all the teams are as prompt in completing their arrangements as the Penrose and Cote Brilliante captains have been. By Friday morning these teams had agreed upon grounds and other necessary details. Their game will be played in the morning at 9 o'clock at St. Louis and Vandeventer avenues.

It is best to have all details settled beforehand, so that no dispute may interfere with the progress of the game at the appointed time.

The Parochial League games are all practically arranged, thanks to the good work of Secretary Kemmins.

Close Race For the Pennant Will Certainly Be the Result.

If all teams in the leagues can play ball as well as the team referred to, not only will there be close races for the pennant, but creditably fought ones. No favorites for the winners have been suggested, and it will be a hard matter to determine what the chances of the various teams are until after the season is well along.

All the teams have done good work in practice and with the great number of games that are to be played any team has a chance to get in the finals.

A great deal has been said about the difference in size of the members of different teams. It is true that the average age of the players varies, but while that makes some difference, it need not discourage the younger nine. The team referred to as having played so well in practice is composed of much smaller boys than the average, and yet it will surely hold its own with some of the older teams.

Captains May Arrange About Umpires and Balls.

Questions still continue to come in concerning the balls to be used. No provision has been made specifying any particular ball. Teams may use whatever variety they see fit. It is suggested that each team take at least one ball to the field, in case of the loss of one or more. It is expected that the teams will supply their own balls.

Two umpires are to be agreed on, unless the captains themselves prefer and agree upon a single one. The double system will prevent disputes. In no case will teams leave the grounds without having completed a game, except should the weather compel it. If a team has a grievance, it will play the game out and later present its protest to the High School committee. If a team leaves the field without having completed a contest, its opponents will have to be given the benefit.

As the Clinton School of the Public School League desired to withdraw from the organization owing to an insufficiency of players, the High School committee substituted the name of the Carroll School to take its place and games.

The High School committee announces that its grounds at Forest Park will be vacant on Saturday morning and afternoon, April 20.

If any question should arise over a question not yet touched upon concerning arrangements for the games, telephone the Post-Dispatch.

And now, boys, if you are ready, play ball!

The Chinese troops whose withdrawal outside of the great wall has been ordered by imperial decree are understood to be the force which a German and French expedition were preparing to attack. Huai-Lu has been located in the cable dispatches as southwest of Pao Ting Fu. The Chinese occupied a position within the limits of territory which the military representatives of the powers had decreed as being under their protection.

LEAGUE SEASON BEGINS FRIDAY

Chicago and Cardinals to Battle in St. Louis.

THREE OTHERS SCEDULED

POWELL AND RYAN ARE BATTERIES FOR CARDINALS.

Emslie Will Officiate as Umpire, Heidrick in Center Field. Burkett in Left Field and Donovan in Right.

FRIDAY'S LEAGUE SCHEDULE.
Chicago at St. Louis.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.
Boston at New York.
Pittsburg at Cincinnati.

Baseball opens in St. Louis Friday afternoon, when the postponed game between the Chicagos and the Cardinals will be played at League Park.

The League season opened dismally for all the teams of the National League, the game between the Brooklyn and the Philadelphias being the only one the weather permitted to take place. The champions won that, owing to their better condition.

The St. Louis team, with its new and old members, was introduced to the public Friday morning, when the parade of players of both the local aggregation and the Chicago players passed through the downtown streets. They looked rather chilly in their uniforms, but doubtless the glory of the moment offset its inconvenience. Some of the men looked long at the admiring crowds that lined the streets in places. They realized they were taking a last look, for the team will be cut down to 16 members May 15.

The parade took in the hotels and newspaper offices, ending at the Southern Hotel, where a lunch was served.

Both teams claim to be in fit condition for the match, and the crowd which is contemplating attending the game hopes so sincerely.

Powell and Ryan are carded for the opening battery of the Cardinals, and if the former holds up under pressure the pair will remain intact throughout. Jones will probably do any substituting that may be necessary. For Chicago, Taylor and Kling will open up.

If Childs is really good enough to head the batting list of the Chicago team this year, he must have improved somewhat, or else his team mates have fallen down several flights. Childs batted but .243 last year. Emslie will umpire the contest and will doubtless give satisfaction as usual. Game will be called at 3:30.

St. Louis.	Chicago.
Burkett lf.	Childs 2b.
Heidrick cf.	Hartzell lf.
Donovan rf.	Dolan rf.
McGann 1b.	Green cf.
Wallace ss.	Doyle 1b.
Padden 2b.	Delehanty 3b.
Kruger 3b.	McCormick ss.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY BRIEFY TOLD

Jones and Dumont were the contestants in Thursday night's continuous pool tournament game at the Grand, the former winning the match by a score of 125 to 46. As the score indicates, Dumont was far outclassed by his opponent. Jones counted heavily at the start and his opponent thereafter was never in sight. Jones' high run was 17. Friday night Van Dyke and Clayton play.

Alfred de Oro, formerly champion poolplayer of the world, who was recently defeated for the championship by Frank Sherman, turned the tables on that player at Washington Thursday night and won the championship back again. He defeated his opponent in the final of a series of three 200-point games, the total score standing 600 to 498 for De Oro.

The draw for Sunday's coursing stake will take place Friday night at the club's headquarters, De Hodiamont. The nominations already in make the stake event for Sunday the largest of the season. The stake will be for the club cup and $50 added. Entry fee, $5.

G. Lacey Crawford's good dog Astral Maid made a good showing at the Mankato (Kan.) meeting Thursday, leading all the dogs in the race in excellent style. The race was unfinished, but the opinion of the judges was that, had it been completed, Crawford's dog would have landed a winner.

Billy Stifft of Chicago and Ben Tremble of San Francisco fought 10 fast rounds to a draw at Denver Thursday night before the Denver Wheel Club. Stifft was the aggressor throughout, but Tremble's clever blocking won him a draw decision.

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE NOTES

The game between the Manual Training School and St. Louis University baseball teams failed to occur as scheduled Thursday, the former team having backed out at the eleventh hour. The University team practiced, however, and showed up excellently. Saturday the team will play the nine of the St. Louis Amateur Athletic Association and will have an opportunity of showing its mettle.

"Tip" O'Neil, who officiated as manager of the St. L. U. football team last fall and has been acting in a similar capacity for the track team this spring, has resigned the latter office, owing to pressure of his studies. Martin Donohue has been appointed to succeed him.

The Interscholastic baseball season opens Saturday with games between High School and Western Military Academy at Pastime Park in the morning and Smith Academy and the Manual Training School at the same place in the afternoon. High School expects to win the pennant, but so do all of them except, perhaps, the Manual Training School.

The Washington University-Smith Academy game carded for Thursday afternoon was called off by the former team, as Manager Sessinghaus is not taking any chances that may injure his men.

CHINESE ORDERED OUT.

Imperial Decree Sends Them Beyond the Great Wall.

PEKIN, Thursday, April 18.—In consequence of strong representations to the Chinese government, an imperial decree, dated Tuesday, April 16, has been issued ordering the Chinese troops at Huai-Lu to immediately remove outside the great wall.

AGENT COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Samuel D. Hagens Found Unconscious at Cherokee Hotel.

Samuel D. Hagens of 213 South Jefferson avenue, a special agent of the New York Life Insurance Co., committed suicide Thursday by taking 20 grains of morphine in the Cherokee Hotel, Sixth and Walnut streets. He leaves a widow and seven children.

Hagens went to the hotel Wednesday night and engaged a room. He remained in it all day Thursday. The clerk went to the room at 7:30 o'clock p. m. to awaken him, but failed. Discovering his condition, the clerk hurried him to the City Dispensary. There he died. The body was sent to the morgue and the Hagens family notified.

CLOSE BUT NOT BRILLIANT

Manhattans Finished Only 26 Pins Ahead of the Eastons—Other Cocked Hat Games.

Though the Manhattans of the St. Louis Cocked Hat League totaled but 26 pins more than their opponents, the Eastons, they won five games in the series played Thursday night on the Cote Brilliante alleys. The Eastons had the better start, winning the first contest by a good margin. Not one of the 10 men engaged was able to pass the 50 mark, and though the match was closely played it can hardly be said to have been brilliant. Roth, 48 1-3, was the high man. Team averages: Manhattans, 44 1-25; Eastons, 43 3-5.

In the match between the Ladedes and the Jeffersons of the St. Louis League the former team won the odd game. The losers had slightly the better of the contest and on pins should have won. Pondrun of the winners, with an average of 51 2-5, was the best of the lot. Teams: Ladedes, 41 1-25; Jeffersons, 44 21-25.

After an exciting contest between the Uhrigs and the Blue Steels of the St. Louis League the former team won an odd game victory. Again were the losers the better bowlers for the evening, having a better team average by the fraction of a pin. Griffin of the Blue Steels was high man with an average of 47 2-5. Team averages: Uhrigs, 41 2-25; Blue Steels, 41 23-25.

The Reeders and the Enterprise teams, also of the St. Louis League, played the third 3-2 game in that organization Thursday night, the former team winning the rubber. Lichtenstein of the winners had the high average, 52, though F. Michael of the same club made 51. Teams: Reeders, 43 3-5; Enterprise, 41 4-5.

The Branch Guards, Office Men's Club League, won four games from the Cardinals. The game was well contested and good bowling characterized some of the contests. Ehrler, with a 54 mark, and D. Bright, 51, were the high men for the winning team. Jones, 50, was the best for the losers. Team averages: Branch Guards, 46 24-25; Cardinals, 46 2-25.

The Centrals and the Westerns of the Oarsmen's League played on the Central's alleys, the former team winning 4 games. The Westerns were forced to play with a blind, owing to the absence of one of their men. Ameiss of the losers was high man with an average of 47 3-5 for the series. Teams: Centrals, 41 19-25; Westerns, 29 6-25.

THREE MEN AFTER THE TURK

Nouroulah, the Oriental Giant, Will Entertain F. G. Curry and Henry Abeken, St. Louis Wrestlers.

Nouroulah, the giant Turk, has two minor matches in front of him before his bout with Wittmer Monday night at the Coliseum.

Friday he will meet F. G. Curry at the Standard Theater, and Saturday Henry Abeken. Both men are after that $100 which is offered by Manager Julian to the man who will stay 15 minutes with his protege. It is likely they will have pains for their wages when they are through with the Oriental.

Nouroulah is a favorite in the betting on the match with Wittmer and many think that he will put Jenkins down when they meet in New York May 7. Mike Mooney is one of these and it is said he has invested $50 in the proposition. Jenkins is a hard man to put down. If the big Turk can do it he will be entitled to call himself a champion.

The conditions of Monday night's match between Wittmer and Nouroulah call for best two falls in three, no hoods barred. The wrestlers are to divide 50 per cent of the gross receipts. Of this amount 75 per cent goes to the winner and the remainder will be the loser's share. Charles H. Haughton, who is promoting the affair, agreed to these articles with Messrs. Julian and Fennessy, respectively managers for Nouroulah and Wittmer.

CHARLES W. MEYER RECOVERED

Schorr's Great Colt Was Not Poisoned, as Feared.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19.—J. F. Schorr's great colt, Charles W. Meyer, who, it was feared for awhile, was about to die as the result of having been poisoned, maliciously, it was supposed, has entirely recovered.

The cause of his trouble has been discovered. It is stated by the veterinary attending the animal, that he was poisoned by drinking lime from a bucket which had been placed outside the stable door. A negro whitewasher left it there.

STATE LICENSE OFFICERS.

T. J. Martin of Keytesville Will Enforce the New Whisky Tax Law.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 19.—The whisky tax law has an emergency clause; today Gov. Dockery started to enforce it by appointing Thomas J. Martin of Keytesville, Charlton County, special license commissioner of the State of Missouri for a term of four years under this law.

Mr. Martin is a prominent business man and influential Democrat of Charlton County. He was a schoolmate of the governor and one of the attendants at his wedding.

The governor also appointed R. W. Steckman, Princeton, Mercer County, a member of the board of control of the Industrial Home for Girls at Chillicothe, vice Thomas J. Martin, resigned. Mr. Steckman is the editor of the People's Press, the only Democratic newspaper published in Mercer County, and is a lawyer of ability and much influence in northwest Missouri.

R. P. Hubbard, Cabool, Texas County, is made a member of the board of commissioners of immigration, vice T. E. Ballard, resigned. Dr. Hubbard is a practicing physician.

SEARCH FOR TREASURE

INDIANA FARMER IS DIGGING UP HIS FARM.

THOUGHT TO BE IN A CHEST

He Says It Was Buried by the Man Who Formery Owned the Place.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 19.—Alvin Trayler, a farmer living near Petersburg, has 25 men at work digging up his farm, foot by foot. Trayler is convinced that his farm is the burying-place of a fortune in $20 gold pieces. In order to uncover the money he has begun the task of turning up every inch of his 160-acre tract of land.

According to Trayler, nearly half a century ago, Carl Schurman, a Mississippi river gambler, purchased the land and paid for it in $20 gold pieces. Among the household goods that he brought with him to the Pike County home was an iron-bound chest that was said to contain more $20 gold pieces. After Schurman took up his residence upon the farm, he lived alone and planted and reaped until the neighbors about him circulated fabulous stories of his supposed wealth.

As Schurman grew old and feeble and ill-health beset him, Trayler befriended him, and, after Schurman's death, a letter was found addressed to Trayler in which it was declared that no heirs were in existence and that the farm was bequeathed to Trayler in partial payment of the latter's kindness in time of distress. The letter was accepted as a will and Trayler succeeded to the farm, the house and the household goods.

Trayler was firm in the conviction that somewhere about the premises was the chest that had occasioned so much comment among the neighbors. He tore up the floor of the hut and searched the house lot, but without success. The circle of search gradually widened until Trayler began to think seriously of turning up the soil of the entire farm. A short time later this decision was reached and the work of investigating every foot of the ground has begun in systematic order.

In addition to this Trayler has resorted to every conceivable plan in the hope of locating the hidden treasure. He has traced imaginary lines with certain fixed objects as his basis, and, where these lines would intersect, he has conducted the search personally in his efforts to locate the treasure. These efforts likewise failed and the final result was the determination to employ a corps of men and go at the work with system and in earnest. He estimates that the search will continue a fortnight longer.

DEATH CAME IN STREET CAR

John Bergmann of 4282 Natural Bridge Road received his death stroke in a street car at Broadway and Carrie street at 7 o'clock and expired in the O'Fallon Park station after he had entrusted his wife and three children to the care of his father, John Bergmann, Sr., who arrived at the scene of his son's death in time to hear his last request.

The father was carried to his son's side at breakneck speed in a wagon driven by a stranger Samaritan, whom the police sent to the St. Louis car shops at 8000 North Broadway. The run from that point to 6200 Broadway, where the street car had been stopped, was made in 25 minutes.

Passengers in the car stood about the strange death-bed and kept back the press of people who surrounded the car and peered into windows and doors. Cushions were removed from the seats in the car and piled on the floor of the station where he was taken. The dying man reposed on the improvised couch and waited for the arrival of his parent.

"Send for pop," were the first utterances of Bergmann when he was taken ill. "I believe I am dying, but I will live until he gets here."

The car was near the O'Fallon Park Station at the time and Conductor H. Tazette summoned the police. They stopped a man who was passing in a light wagon and asked him if he would get Bergmann's father at once. The man in the wagon for reply shouted yes and lashed his animal into a run.

The coroner was notified of the death and an autopsy will be held to decide the cause of death.

Bergmann was 36 years of age and was a patrolman on the police force until two years ago. He served in that capacity for eight years. After his retirement he was employed as a machinist by the St. Louis car shops, which were his desination when death interrupted his journey.

EXAMINATIONS FOR CHAPLAINS.

They Will Be Required to Know Something About Everything.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The President recently appointed 17 army chaplains. Under the law all such appointments are subject to examination except in the case of chaplains serving in the volunteer establishment, of which there are only six. The war department has just completed arrangements for the examination of the remaining eleven.

Instructions have been issued to the board defining the scope of the examination to the chaplains as follows:

1. English grammar, including orthography, reading, writing from oral dictation and English literature.
2. Mathematics, including arithmetic, algebra, to include the solutions of the first degree containing one unknown quantity, the use of logarithms, the elements of plane geometry, plane trigonometry and surveying.
3. Geography, particularly in reference to the United States and North America.
4. The outlines of general history and particularly the history of the United States.
5. The constitution of the United States and the organization of the government under it, and the elements of international law.
6. Physical aptitude, as determined by the medical examination.
7. Moral character and civil record as verified after a thorough investigation by the board.

DUTY ON RUSSIAN SUGAR.

Appraisers Justify the Impost Recently Made by United States.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The board of classification of the United States general appraisers, today announced a decision in the Russian sugar case. The board, by a majority vote, holds that the United States government was justified in imposing a countervailing duty on Russian sugar. The opinion was written by Judge Somerville, and General Appraiser Fischer concurs with him. Col. Tichenor writes a dissenting opinion.

Marshal Scullin's Deputies.

Marshal James Scullin has announced his deputies as follows: Isaac Conran, chief deputy; John McDermott, Second District police court; Joseph E. O'Connor, keeper of dog pound; John J. Rogers, John J. Moynahan, Ed J. Ratchford, Michael T. Hardy, Ed Flannery, James Farley, Leon Lueders, John T. Kiely, John Siefert, James Jackson, Ed Woodson and Josh G. Barrett, deputies.

Increase in Shopmen's Wages.

PARSONS, Kan., April 19.—The officials of the M., K. & T. R. R. are in this city transacting some important business for their road. They have announced a voluntary increase in the shopmen's wages from 27 to 31 cents an hour. This increase will mean an increased outlay of from $15,000 to $20,000 a month at this point. The hours of employment were also increased from eight to ten.

CONTRACT TO DIE

FRED FISHER AND HIS SWEETHEART SIGNED THE PAPER.

THEIR MARRIAGE WAS OPPOSED

On the Bank of the Chemung He Took Her Life and Then His Own.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 19.—Because their marriage was opposed, Fred J. Fisher, a guard at the reformatory, and Anna Linberg signed a contract to die. Their dead bodies were found early today on the bank of the Chemung river, three miles from the city.

In Fisher's left hand was a revolver, two chambers of which had been discharged. The girl had a bullet hole in her right temple, while Fisher was shot through the left temple. It was evident that Fisher had stood over the girl and shot her, as there were no powder marks on her face, and had then lain down, put his arm about her, and taken his own life.

The note left by the sweethearts was written in a bold hand. The signature "Anna" was in a trembling hand. This is the note found in Fisher's pocket:

CONTRACT TO DIE.
April 17, 1901.

Brothers and Sisters: I am about to end all with my sweetheart, who is willing. You will find my diamonds, jewelry, etc., in my trunk; also cemetery papers. Have money due me from New York State Reformatory. I wish to be buried in Rochester. FRED.

We go together and die happy.
FRED.
ANNA.

On the girl's finger was a plain gold band ring, bearing Fisher's initials, "F. J. F."

Fisher, who was 25 years old, was the son of John J. Fisher, a Rochester man, who committed suicide a year ago through despondency over the loss of his wife.

Miss Linberg was a pretty blond of 21. She was employed in a local silk mill.

Fisher's Rochester relatives, who are wealthy, opposed his marriage to Miss Linberg.

CHURCH PAPERS COMBINE

Duke of Newcastle Arranging for American Editions and Local Consolidations.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Col. and Mrs. Stevens are entertaining the Duke of Newcastle at Castle Point, Hoboken. The Duke met at luncheon the Rev. George M. Christian, Bishop Starkey of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey, the Rev. Father Ritchie of New York, Rev. George Ernest Magill of New York, Mr. Albert Clifton Kelway of England, George Frelinghuysen and Henry Hayes of Newark, Richard Stevens and Henry A. Wayne. The clergymen present were all ritualists and Mr. Kelway is the editor of the Church Review, the official organ of the high church party in England, while the Rev. Dr. Ritchie is the editor of the Catholic Champion.

These two church publications were the topic of the talk that followed the luncheon. A proposition of circulating an American edition of the Church Review is under consideration. It is proposed to combine several small church publications in this country into one large publication, so that the interests of the ritualist party may be advanced. This new publication will probably be printed in Philadelphia.

The Church Review will be sent to this country ten days before it is edited in England and will be distributed with the American publication. The same thing will be done with the paper published here. It will be sent to England and distributed with the Review. Three church publications have already been secured by the Church Review and will now be combined. They are the Catholic Champion, Evangelist and Church Defense.

SOLDIERS AS COLONISTS.

French are Using Madagascar for Their Experiments.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Gen. Gallenie, the military governor of Madagascar, has begun a new system of military colonization on the island, according to a communication received at the state department from United States Consul Brunet, at St. Etienne. Already, it is stated, over 50 soldier-colonists are in possession of their concessions and are in a fair way of becoming independent and useful members of the community.

The new system now applies, not only to soldiers who have finished their term of service in the French army, but also to those who are yet in their third and last year, and gives the colonization more of a domestic than a military aspect. The colonist is provided with agricultural implements and a few head of cattle to start with, and if he fulfills expectations as to his value as a member of the community may borrow money at long credit and with no interest.

As an instance of the result obtained, a case is cited wherein a French corporal received a gift of 250 acres, planted potatoes and realized $300 from them by the end of the year. His little concession prospered steadily and last year he turned in an inventory showing the value of his tenement, cattle, etc., to be nearly $4,000. Considerable extension to the present system is contemplated.

POLICEMAN'S WIDOW SUES.

Mrs. Looney Asks $10,000 For Death of Her Husband.

Mrs. Mary Looney, widow of the late John P. Looney, a patrolman, who was killed Sept. 3, 1900, at Twelfth and Morgan streets, brought suit Friday against the Seekner Contracting Co., the Imperial Electric Light, Heating and Power Co. and the City Lighting Co. for $10,000 damages, alleging that they were responsible for the death of her husband.

The petition recites that Looney was killed by an electric shock while at the police telephone at Twelfth and Morgan streets. It alleges that the defendants had run a wire across Eighth street at Carr street so that it came into contact with the wire of the police telephone.

It is further alleged that on Sept. 3, when Looney was killed, a current of 7000 volts was passing through the defendant's wire at Eighth and Carr streets. This current, it is averred, formed a circuit through the police telephone wire, passing its current through that wire. In this way, it is alleged, Officer Looney received the shock which caused his death.

The petition is in two counts for $5000 each.

FIXING MR. HAMMER'S BOND.

Special Meeting of Board of Education Friday Afternoon.

There will be a special meeting of the Board of Education at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon to act upon the bond of the new city collector, Ludwig F. Hammer, Jr.

The city collector is required to give a special bond to the Board of Education. The amount is to be fixed by the board.

The city collector is required by law to turn over to the board a certain amount of the tax moneys he collects. Last year the board received over $1,500,000 from this source.

CONDITIONS BEARISH

WEAK LIVERPOOL CABLES CAUSED SCATTERING SELLING.

UNLOADING WAS OVERCOME

Demand Improved and All Crop Positions Showed an Upward Tendency—Corn Held Its Own.

The very weak tone of the Liverpool market caused early declines in all crop positions, but later the demand improved and higher prices were recorded.

Trading was light and price variations unimportant, corn serving to steady the wheat market, the bull pool continuing to absorb all offerings.

There was some weakness noticeable in corn futures in the early part of the session, but later the demand was strong and Chicago leading the local market showed a slight rally.

There was little trading in oats futures until near the close; there were no sales recorded; then May sold at 26½c.

Wheat and flour clearances today were 424,000 bushels; corn, 272,000 bushels; oats, 112,000 bushels.

May wheat closed 1-16c down for the day and July ⅛@¼c below the previous closing price. May corn closed ⅛c down and July 1-16c up. May oats closed ¼c down for the day.

Conditions surrounding the wheat market today were somewhat more bearish than for several days past, but despite this fact traders continued to give good support, buying liberally on the breaks, while on the bulges the unloading was light and scattered.

Estimated Argentine shipments for the week are 744,000 bu, compared with 1,344,000 bu the previous week and 3,348,000 bu the same week last year.

May wheat locally opened at 70⅝c and then sold at 70⅞c, 70¾@71c, 70⅞c, 70¾@70⅞c, 70⅝c, 70⅞c, 70⅝c, 70⅝c, 70¾@70⅞c, 70⅞c and again at 70¾@70⅞c.

July sold at 68⅝c, 68⅝@68¾c, 68⅝c, 68⅝@68⅞c, 68⅝c, 68⅝@68⅞c, 68⅝c, 68⅝c, 68½c, 68½@68⅝c, 68⅝c, and again at 68⅝@68⅞c.

Receipts of wheat at St. Louis today were 8044 bu, compared with 14,325 bu same date last year. Of these, 375 sacks and 9 cars were local, compared with 700 sacks and 17 cars same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth today were 275 cars, as compared with 262 cars same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at primary points today were 389,780 bu, as compared with 370,000 bu same date last year.

Corn Market Slightly Easier.

Corn was easier today, a decline of ⅛d to ⅝d in the Liverpool market had a weakening influence, but despite this there was fair support on the breaks and no very sensational declines were noted.

Argentine shipments for the week are reported as 368,000 bu, compared with 88,000 bu the previous week and 72,000 bu the same week last year.

May corn opened ⅛c down at 42⅝c and then sold at 42¾c, 42⅞c, 42¾c, 42⅝c and at 42⅝@42¾c.

July sold at 42⅝c, 42½c and at 42⅝c.

Receipts of corn at St. Louis today were 25,400 bu, compared with 161,000 bu same date last year. Of these, 1840 sacks and 21 cars were local, compared with 400 sacks and 67 cars same date last year.

Receipts of corn at primary points today were 192,126 bu, as compared with 477,000 bu same date last year.

Oats Given Little Attention.

May oats were figured nominally at 26¾c, but no sales were recorded in the early session and traders were inclined to give this cereal little attention.

Receipts of oats at St. Louis today were 5985 bu, compared with 65,960 bu same date last year. Of these 210 sks and 41 cars were local, compared with 232 sks and 37 cars same date last year.

Modern Miller Outlook.

The Hessian fly has done much damage to wheat in northern Texas and appeared in Oklahoma, the territories and in parts of Kansas, from where some damage is already reported. From other sections of the winter wheat belt the reports are quite favorable, there having been an abundance of moisture, with the temperature below the normal for this season of the year, which is propitious for the crop, as it lessens the perils of the Hessian fly. The crops in California are showing effects of continued drouth.

Cotton Futures Grow Steady.

An advance of 1 point in the Liverpool cotton market today had somewhat of a steadying influence upon the cotton markets of this country, though it was admitted that so small an advance gave little encouragement to the bull contingent.

At New York cotton futures opened a shade lower and then worked higher, under the support of a fair demand.

May opened 4 points down, July 3, Aug. 4, Sept. 2 and Dec. 2. The losses in the near positions were soon removed, and futures sold at the previous closing prices.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Irregularity marked the trade in wheat futures early today. Traders were confronted by a decline at Liverpool in the face of light shipments from Argentine. The weather, too, was more favorable. May opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c lower at 70⅞c to 70⅝c. A report that the English selling was long stuff which had been bought in anticipation of the imposition of an import tariff came during the first hour in explanation of the Liverpool drop, and local bears covered, sending May up to 70⅞@71c. The market, however, was not strong and prices soon eased off again, May getting to 70⅝c, where it steadied. Argentine shipments were 744,000 bu. Local receipts were 21 cars, none of contract grade, while Minneapolis and Duluth reported 275 cars, against 188 last week and 262 a year ago.

There was only a small local trade in corn, but prices held steady. May opened a shade lower to ⅛c higher at 43⅞c to 44@44⅛c and reacted to 42⅞c. Receipts were 113 cars, 12 of contract grade.

May oats opened a shade higher to unchanged at 25⅝@25½c to 25⅜c and sold to 25¼@25⅜c. There was a small outside demand, but it was more than offset by local offerings. Receipts were 170 cars.

The provisions market ruled firm in sympathy with an advance in hog prices at the yards and on light hog receipts. July pork opened 5c higher at $14.32½ and advanced to $14.42½; July lard a shade up at $7.97½@8, advancing to $8.02½, and July ribs unchanged at $7.90, selling to $7.95.

The first line of quotations in each class is calculated to represent the full range from common to extra. Dealers, however, often classify superlative bunches (all tops) for buyers, which sometimes sell considerably above the highest quotations. The second line of quotations signifies the bulk of sales and generally represents the various classes as they are sold on the commission market, more or less mixed.

STOCKYARDS NOTES.

In the vernacular of the street, "There is nothin' doin'" in the British government business. The last of the horse contracts that existed for a hundred odd head were quietly filled during the week. These were some "M. I.'s" (or mounted infantry) and some yeomanry grades, which ran between 14.2 and 15 hands. Being very little Southern demand prevalent, the contractors bought them without any serious competition, and at considerably cheaper prices than were paid about three weeks ago. "These few head settle the British contracts, so far as we know at present," said one of the chief luminaries in that trade. "That injunction business at New Orleans didn't hurt the demand any; whether any more will be purchased in the future hinges on the developments in South Africa."

All the consigners who had strictly good 1200 to 1400-pound chunks before the buyers Thursday found a ready outlet for them and at good, strong prices. For this class of offerings the buying element was large, being supported by liberal orders in the hands of Nugent Bros. for Herman Stoner, Sam Jones for Harry Spencer, Buffalo; Capt. Reppard for Al Ramp, Percy Goslett, buying for London shipment, by several other New England buyers, and by a force of domestic operators. Values on the fair to good specimens of this class ranged from $90 to $105, and for the choice to extra ones at $110 to $135. The bulk of the sales were made around $110 to $120, this class comprising about one-sixth of the total offerings.

The St. Louis house of Douglas, Lacey & Co. has received, under date of the 17th inst., the following, in reference to the oil fields in Southern California:

"Have completed examination of the oil properties. The unanimous opinion of the party is that they are better than the prospectus states. Present product 3500 barrels monthly. Prospects are the new well will yield 100 barrels daily. Present earnings 3 per cent monthly on entire amount invested, even at the present low price of oil, viz: 85 cents."

OUR QUAILS FOR SWEDEN.

Exports of Live Birds Have Reached 5000, Worth $3500.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Consul Nelson at Bergen, in a communication to the state department, says that the importation of American quails into Sweden has awakened lively interest. More than 5000 quails, representing a sum of about $3500, have been ordered for the spring and still more orders are expected.

A FEW BLOSSOMS

NEAR MAY.

Buds on the trees are broken,
Green leaves peep out;
By this same vernal token
Spring poets shout.
This is flowering season,
The time to air new fads,
Time for "feasts of reason"
By college grad's.

A stupendous plant for the manufacture of power is being built in St. Louis. It has no rival west of New York. Every St. Louisan is interested in it. Read the story in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

A large number of towns in the Southwest have been named after St. Louisans. Pictures of the towns and the men will appear in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Do you know St. Louis is the country's medical college center? More doctors secure diplomas here than in any other city. Here are some of the graduates this year whose pictures will appear in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch:

MOVING ON CHINESE

GERMAN AND FRENCH MILITARY EXPEDITION.

NUMBER EIGHT THOUSAND.

Said to Be Marching Against One of the Passes in Shan Si Province.

LONDON, April 19.—A dispatch from Pekin says: Gen. Loessel, commanding the German troops in China, has started for Pao Ting Fu with 1000 additional men. He was accompanied by the French commander, Gen. Bailloud. The Franco-German forces available for the expedition number 8000 men.

The greatest secrecy is maintained as to the object of these military preparations, but it is believed that it is proposed to take possession of another of the Ansoling passes into Shan Si, where Chinese troops are reported. Members of the diplomatic corps without exception are mystified, and manifest considerable apprehension at this revival of military activity.

Viceroy Li Hung Chang sent a courier to Gen Li, commanding the troops in the Shan Si passes, and calling upon him to avoid a meeting, if necessary by retiring from his position, which is incontestably Chinese; but the viceroy is not confident that the general will obey orders unless sanction comes from Shan Fu, which he is endeavoring to secure.

There is apparently no military or political reason for this advance.

EARLY MORNING EXPLOSION

An explosion in the grocery of Mueller Bros., at 4050 North Grand avenue, at 5:35 o'clock Friday morning, the cause of which is not fully established, created a blaze which did an estimated damage of $600 before the flames were extinguished.

The police and fire departments could not ascertain whether the explosion was caused by escaping gas from the mains or from a gas generated of gasoline.

When Philip A. Mueller opened the store Friday morning he carried in his hand a lighted match. When he opened the door leading into the middle room of the store there was a sudden explosion. He was hurled back a few feet, and instantly the place was enveloped in flames. John Liska, the motorman of a car that was passing, saw the fire and turned in an alarm. The fire was soon extinguished.

Mr. Mueller was not injured by the explosion. He says the explosion was due to leaking gas pipes. The fire was confined to a room in which a number of barrels of coal oil were kept. There was no gasoline in the room, but on the outside of the room, against the wall on the Kossuth avenue side, there was a barrel of gasoline, from which a pump on the inside conveyed the gasoline to the inside of the room. It was near this pump that the fire was burning.

It is estimated by the police that the stock was damaged $500 and the building $100.

MORRIS COHEN'S BODY FOUND.

Wife Believes He Was Robbed and Thrown Into River.

Mrs. Morris Cohen of 912 North Twelfth street has identified the body found floating in Cahokia creek Thursday morning as that of her missing husband.

Cohen, who was a clerk in a department store, left home March 20. His wife learned next day that he had gone to a saloon at Eleventh street and Franklin avenue directly after leaving home, but was unable to trace his movements after he left that place.

The body had evidently been in the water a week when found. Only 5 cents was found in the dead man's pockets. Mrs. Cohen says he had $30 in his possession when he left home. She expresses the opinion that her husband may have been robbed and thrown in the river.

75c to $1.50 Excursion

CITY NEWS.

Not a whit the worse for the Consumer's use is the fact of water or dampness on the Chicago Fire linens, sheetings towels, damasks, quilts, etc., etc., now on sale at Crawford's, than a fly speck would make upon them, but there is the difference of from 25 to 35 per cent between the price of perfect goods and the said Fire goods!! Every economical housewife in town who misses laying in a big lot of the Fire goods will be heart-broken when it is too late!!

SILAS B. JONES DIES SUDDENLY.

Prominent Lawyer and Churchman Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Silas Beverly Jones died suddenly Thursday afternoon at his residence, 4339 Forest Park boulevard, from heart disease. He had been ill two months with nervous prostration.

Mr. Jones was a well-known lawyer. He was born July 26, 1851, in Huntingdon, Tenn. He was educated at Trenton, Tenn., and in 1872 came to St. Louis and was admitted to the bar. In 1888 he formed a partnership with Judge J. E. McKeighan, and later was associated with Edward T. Farish.

In 1876 Mr. Jones was married to Miss Hattie Senter, daughter of the late William M. Senter. She and seven children survive him. They are Mrs. Jere L. Crook of Jackson, Tenn.; Le Grand, Senter, Beverly, Wilkins, Asa and Alenson Jones. The four younger sons are attending school in St. Louis.

Mr. Jones was a prominent member of the Third Baptist Church and secretary and treasurer of the Mississippi Baptist Sanitarium.

SIX COMMISSIONERS NAMED

St. Louis Presbytery Will Have an Unprecedented Representation at the General Assembly.

At the concluding session of the presbytery of St. Louis Thursday afternoon the following commissioners to the general assembly at Philadelphia in May were elected:

Principals—Rev. S. J. Niccolls, pastor of the Second Church; Rev. F. L. Ferguson, pastor of the West Church, and Rev. H. C. Evans, pastor of the Kirkwood Church. Alternates—Rev. W. J. McKittrick, pastor of the First Church; Rev. S. C. Palmer, pastor of the Lafayette Park Church, and Rev. W. H. Bates, pastor of the Webster Groves Church.

Lay commissioners—Dr. G. W. Weyer of the First Church; A. G. Souther of Ferguson, and John H. Utoff. Alternates—P. M. Ogan of Curby Memorial, Alexander Marshall of Carondelet, and Dr. W. G. Dickerson of Grace Church.

This is the first time that the presbytery of St. Louis has had six commissioners to the general assembly.

A resolution was presented by a special committee comprising Rev. Drs. Niccolls, Ferguson and Barclay and Rev. Mr. Parr, indorsing Excise Commissioner Seibert in his endeavors to suppress the winerooms.

The St. Louis presbytery (South) also concluded its session Thursday with a brief session, at which Dr. Leyburn reviewed the home mission work of the state.

SHOT BY A POLICEMAN.

Edward Krause Struck by a Bullet While Running Away.

Edward Krause, aged 21 years, who says his home is at Delaware, O., was shot in the right hip Thursday afternoon by Patrolman Scanlan of the Fifth District as he and four other men were fleeing from the officer at Hall avenue and the Terminal tracks. Krause was taken to the City Hospital, where he is held as a prisoner, charged with trespassing.

The shooting was the result of many complaints that have been made to the police recently that thieves have been breaking into box cars in North St. Louis and stealing property. Patrolman Scanlan saw the men climb into a car and started after them to ascertain what they were doing. They leaped from the car and fled. He says he shot at the ground to alarm them, and that his bullet glanced and hit Krause.

Krause says he was only preparing to secrete himself in the car to ride across the river, where he expected to board a train for his home.

KILLED A WOULD-BE LODGER

J. E. Burke, Jr., Shot by Will Dalton During a Quarrel With Lodging House Proprietor.

John E. Burke, Jr., a shoemaker and son of a wealthy contractor, died at the City Hospital Friday of two bullet wounds in the chest, which he received during a fight Thursday night with William Dalton at the latter's lodging house, 706 South Second street.

Conflicting stories are told of the origin of the quarrel by friends of the participants. Burke's friends say he and several other men, who had been lodging in Dalton's house for two years, became dissatisfied and announced their intention of moving. Dalton, they say, blamed Burke for having engendered their dissatisfaction and upbraided him for it. Burke denied the charge, they say, whereupon Dalton rushed at him. Burke raised a chair to defend himself and Dalton struck him over the head with a revolver, they allege, knocking him down, after which he ordered Burke from the premises. Burke refused to obey and Dalton, it is averred, shot him twice.

Dalton's story is that Burke called at his place and asked for a night's lodging, although he said he had no money to pay for it. He says he told Burke he was not running a charity house and that the latter was so angered by the remark that he picked up a chair and attempted to strike the proprietor over the head. Dalton says he shot then to protect himself.

One of the bullets struck Burke in the chest near the left shoulder. A bone caused it to glance across Burke's chest, perforating both lungs. The other bullet passed through the right lung.

Burke is 41 years old and has been in St. Louis three years. He followed his trade of shoemaker up to three weeks ago, when he lost his position.
